Brian Gibbons

Brian taught all of us that the homeless should not be a forgotten population and that homeless people are human beings who deserve recognition, respect, and understanding. He was especially fond of homeless veterans, to whom he showed incredible personal generosity. Not only did he find shelter for these folks, but he worked each day trying to find them job opportunities as well.

He was not a bureaucrat. He was a man of action. He was a tireless advocate for the poor and homeless. He brought warmth, food, and comfort to anyone who was cold, hungry, or in need of the basic requirements.

In the worst possible weather, in bitter cold, through driving rain or snow, Brian was always out checking on the homeless trying to convince them to "come in out of the storm" and let him find them the shelter they so deserve.
