Matthew 9:36–10:8

Today's Gospel passage recounts the familiar story of the call of the Twelve, the core group of disciples who share Jesus' ministry and mission. Jesus' commissioning of the Twelve is more than a special favor; it has a purpose. Indeed, it is Jesus' response of compassion for the "troubled and abandoned" crowds he encounters in his journey. Just as God chose the Israelites at Sinai as a "special possession" to keep the covenant (first reading), so too Jesus commissions the Twelve with a mission to "the lost sheep of the house of Israel," to heal the sick and drive out demons--a new kind of covenant. Being chosen is not mere privilege; it is a call to service.
