

Information on long-term supplier declarations (LLE)

As a trading company, we do not issue LLEs as a matter of principle, as we are only permitted to issue them if we are in possession of valid preliminary documentation from the upstream supplier.

We source our product range from various international, european, and national sources. Depending on availability, we purchase from different suppliers within a reporting period.

A large part of our product range comes from countries of origin that do not benefit from preferential treatment. In addition, data is only passed on to a limited extent in the supply chain, which means that for most standard parts we do not have the necessary data for a corresponding declaration or the available data is ambiguous (e.g., multisourcing or “third country”).

In most cases, a long-term supplier's declaration is not required. Our fasteners probably only make up a small fraction of your finished assembly or product. Therefore, as a rule, the origin or preference of the items we supply should not be relevant.

Alternatively, we offer the following service:

We will be happy to advise you and check whether it is possible to issue an individual supplier's declaration for certain items, provided that we are informed of the necessity for this at the time of the request for quotation and we can obtain the necessary information from our suppliers. Please note that it is not possible to obtain such declarations retrospectively.
