

GEN AND THE WOBBLY WONDER CHAIR

Gen was in 4th grade and already had a favorite smell — fresh sawdust and wood glue.

His dad was a carpenter, and Gen loved helping him build stuff in the garage.

Together, they made birdhouses, shelves, and even a tree swing (that only slightly leaned left).

One Saturday, Gen decided he was ready for his biggest project yet:

The Epic, Amazing, Totally-Not-Wobbly Chair.

One Saturday, Gen decided he was ready for his biggest project yet:
The Epic, Amazing, Totally-Not-Wobbly Chair.

After hours of work, he stepped back proudly.
The chair looked like it was doing the cha-cha.

Wow,” Dad said with a grin. “That’s the most confidently uneven chair I’ve ever seen! Gen burst out laughing. “It’s called ‘creative angles,’ Dad!

Even though it wasn't perfect, Gen loved every part of the process. He knew he was just getting started.

One day, he'd be a great carpenter—just like his dad—but with his own twist of awesome.

When you love doing something, keep learning and growing.
Mistakes are part of the journey — build your dreams with heart, hands, and a whole lot of fun! 🪚🔧💡

The End