This quarter, we continue our tradition of sharing our annual report as our Fall newsletter. The 2021-2022 edition includes numerous examples of the invaluable work of our graduate research assistants on diverse projects in partnership with communities across the nation. Our students contributed to projects in Tennessee, Alabama, Missouri, Montana, and multiple states along the Mormon Pioneer National Historic Trail.

Our 2021-2022 projects included work on a new interpretive plan and survey of historic structures along the Cherokee Trail of Tears in Missouri, several National Register of Historic Places nominations of places associated with Alabama's Civil Rights history, an exhibit about the historic Tanner School in Newport, Tennessee, digitization of significant primary sources created by the R.H. Boyd Company in Nashville, a walking/driving tour of historic Dunlap in Sequatchie County, development of a curriculum focusing on the home front in Tennessee during World War II, and a heritage development plan for Davies Manor in Shelby County. These and many other projects reveal the ongoing vitality of the Center's programs, from the Tennessee Civil War National Heritage Area to the National Trails Program to Teaching with Primary Sources—MTSU.

We welcome your comments and questions at histpres@mtsu.edu. Be sure to follow us on Facebook and Instagram.

In January, we will send out our Winter 2023 newsletter in the standard format, including our Formers' Corner video spot.