Romans 1:16-23

Sermon Questions

1. How does our worship change when we start taking God's grace for granted instead of seeing it as an actual rescue?
2. Where do we catch ourselves trading God's greatness for things that feel easier to manage in our daily lives?
3. What specific routines or successes do we lean on to feel important when God's truth exposes our insecurities?
4. What makes us hesitate to talk about the cross when we are around people who think faith is foolish?
5. Why do we often feel nervous about telling others the truth about Jesus, and what does that fear show about who we are trying to protect?
6. How does our need to fit in with the crowd quietly control what we are willing to say about our faith?
7. How can we help each other make the good news of Jesus the real fuel for both our Sunday praise and our Monday conversations?
