LEGACY

Aloha mai kākou,

This week we honored our teachers, the backbone of our school community. Mahalo to our PTG for celebrating them with special treats and recognition for their unwavering dedication to the vocation of education. Our teachers do far more than simply show up each day. They make it their mission to provide every child with a meaningful learning experience rooted in care, compassion, and excellence. They love and support our students as if they were their own, often without seeking recognition in return. If you happen to see one of our teachers, please take a moment to thank them for all that they do.

Our annual May Day Program took place on May 6 and was truly an event to remember. Mahalo nui loa to Kumu Sissy for leading and showcasing the incredible talents of our students. The audience filled every available seat, making it standing room only. This year also marked the debut of our lei contest, highlighting the creativity and craftsmanship of our haumāna. Winners were recognized and awarded prizes for their outstanding work.

Please join us on Tuesday, May 26, as we gather to recognize and celebrate our high school students who will not be returning next year. Bishop Larry Silva will preside over Mass at 6:30 p.m., followed by a short program and potluck dinner in the café. We invite our parish and school community to come together in support of our students and their families who chose to invest in a Catholic education at St. Anthony School. Our alumni will also be making a special presentation during the evening.

I remain excited and hopeful about the future of St. Anthony School as we continue to adopt and implement innovative new models for the coming school year. Stay tuned for future bulletins as we share more about these exciting initiatives.

*Peace and blessings,
Mary Jean Bega

Support the Catholic Communication Campaign

Communication is not only the transmission of information, but it is also the creation of a culture, of human and digital environments that become spaces for dialogue and discussion. In looking at how technology is developing, this mission becomes ever more necessary.

—Pope Leo XIV, Address to the Representatives of the Media, May 12, 2025

With crucial support received through the annual collection for CCC, the USCCB convened bishops, ministry leaders, and mental health experts for a series of roundtable video discussions on several aspects of mental health care in 2024 and 2025.

In one video, Bishop Robert E. Barron discussed the mental health issues that many young people face. Another video featured a discussion between Bishop Edward J. Burns and key mental health experts on the unique mental health experiences of clergy and consecrated religious.

In a third discussion, Bishop James D. Conley met with two mental health experts to discuss mental and spiritual wellness in the family. Bishop Conley reflected on his own mental health journey as a bishop that he also discussed at length in a 2024 pastoral letter on mental health, titled "A Future with Hope."

These video discussions are available online and are also broadcast on Catholic television networks throughout the country. When you support your diocese's collection for CCC, you support the national communications projects of the bishops, such as daily scripture readings and the mental health roundtables, while also supporting the communications efforts of your own diocese: 50% of funds taken up in the collection stay in your diocese. Next week our special collection supports the Catholic Communication Campaign.

This campaign represents a mission of love to share the gospel message of hope with people in the United States using the internet, television, radio, and print media. Half of the money we collect remains here at St. Anthony of Padua Maui Catholic church to fund local communications efforts.

The other half supports the communication activities of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops and other projects across the United States. Your help spreads the gospel message! Learn more at www.usccb.org/com

The Spirit Disguised

This Week's Readings at Mass

- ▶ Acts 8:5-8, 14-17 • Philip in Samaria
- ▶ 1 Peter 3:15-18 • On Christian suffering
- ▶ John 14:15-21 • Promise of the Paraclete

While much of the book of the Acts of the Apostles follows the work and travels of Peter and Paul, today's passage tells us that other believers were doing healing work in Jesus' name too. In this case, Philip ventured out of the Jewish crowds to go to the city of Samaria, a place that historically many Jews avoided. Samaritans shared some of the history and beliefs of the Jews but were seen as traitors to the faith, partly because they refused to go to Jerusalem for worship. That didn't phase Philip or slow God's work, though, because the Samaritans eagerly received "the word of God" and became believers in Christ too. The story has echoes of the Samaritans who quickly came to believe in Jesus after the woman at the well introduced them to him.

This Gospel reading picks up just a few verses after last week's Gospel left off. Jesus is still speaking to the disciples on the night before he dies. The disciples are still worried and concerned by Jesus' predictions of betrayal and denial. Jesus continues to reassure them, now introducing the promise of the Holy Spirit, sometimes called the "Advocate" or the "Paraclete."

Just as Jesus explained to Philip in last Sunday's Gospel reading (that Philip already knew the Father because Philip knew Jesus), he explains that the apostles also already know the Spirit. Like those confused disciples, we might first protest that we don't know the Spirit either. If we pay attention to our experiences, though, and think back to times when we have instinctively known the truth or what was the right thing to do, we can spot how the Spirit was with us. Maybe we had a flash of insight, or someone said something that we instantly recognized as right for us, or we had an unexplained experience of comfort or strength in a difficult situation. Those experiences are experiences of the Advocate, the Holy Spirit, present and working within us.

Questions of the Week

- 1 When have you had an experience of the Holy Spirit's presence or guidance, even if you didn't recognize it at the time?
- 2 When have you had an experience of feeling peace, comfort, or strength despite an outward struggle you were experiencing?
