This is a great chance to get some exercise, and meet some new friends!

Aloha mai kākou,

As we conclude our first month of school, I am filled with gratitude for a smooth and successful start to the year. The classrooms are alive with learning, laughter, and prayer—and it's a joy to witness our students thriving in both faith and academics.

We are happy to report that our staffing is now nearly complete! We are truly blessed with a team of dedicated and faith-filled educators who are committed to nurturing the minds and hearts of our students. Our school has officially begun the accreditation process. This is an exciting opportunity for us to reflect on our strengths, identify areas for growth, and reaffirm our commitment to academic excellence and our Catholic mission. Students have also completed their first round of STAR testing. These assessments help us better understand each student's learning journey and ensure we are providing the support they need to grow and succeed. Most importantly, through all the busyness and milestones, we continue to remind ourselves daily that God is in control. His grace guides every step we take.

Finally, please join me in congratulating our beloved pastor Msgr. Terry Watanabe, on his 48th anniversary of the priesthood! We are so thankful for his decades of faithful service, spiritual leadership, and unwavering dedication to our parish and school community. May God continue to bless him abundantly.

As we head into the long Labor Day weekend, I encourage everyone to take time for rest, family, and reflection.

Blessings,
Mary Jean S. Bega

BREAKING OPEN THE WORD

Twenty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time - Gospel Reflection

Readings: Sirach 3: 17-18, 20, 28-29. Psalm 68: 4-5, 6-7, 10-11. Hebrews 12: 18-19, 22-24a. Luke 14: 1, 7-14.

August's end marks a return to the ordinariness of home and school and work. Opening the Word today reveals a complementary virtue for living there with hope.

The first reading from Sirach offers paternal wisdom: "My child, conduct your affairs with humility." An inner disposition to lowliness, humility puts others first, demonstrating a relational concern more prized than the giving of material gifts. It avoids trying to master "what is too sublime" or to outmuscle "things beyond your strength." Humility keeps even the great and the wise "attentive" to learning from others.

In today's Gospel reading, Jesus extends the disposition of humility to the domain of everyday life. With a two-part tale about dining, He situates hope in humble alternatives to social conventions.

Guests at a banquet typically want front row seats, the better to see and to be seen. Real esteem comes not from self-maneuvering ("reclining at table in the place of honor"), but from him who hosts the banquet and determines the final seating.

Likewise, dinner hosts may expect a repayment from guests, whether in gifts given or reciprocal invitations offered. True blessing comes not from self-serving generosity, but from a goodness that has eternity in mind ("the resurrection of the righteous").

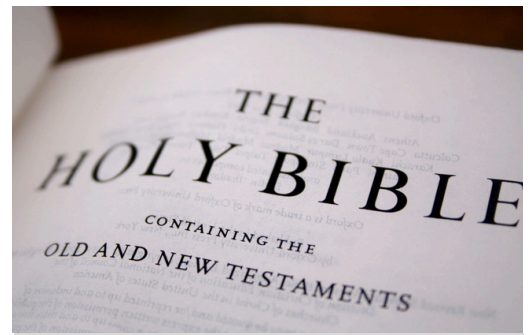

Both examples teach that hope is not self-derived. It comes from another who holds a greater place – ultimately, the God who hosts an eternal banquet and even freely invites "the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind."

Today's second reading paints contrasting views of what inspires a response to God's invitation. The Israelites were impelled by terrifying signs (fire, darkness, storm, trumpet blast) to enter a covenant at Mount Sinai. But Christians are affected by the beauties of a "Heavenly Jerusalem," where angels gather, ancients (the "firstborn") are enrolled and "spirits of the just" (believers) are "made perfect."

We can approach that festive assembly now because of the "sprinkled blood" of Jesus on the Cross. By His "eloquent" mediation there, He speaks eternal redemption into effect and opens the way to "the city of the living God."

Christian hope, then, is not based on human ability or accomplishments. It comes from a humble appreciation of the Paschal Mystery, through which the Divine Goodness has "made a home" for those who humbly embrace their being poor in God's sight (Responsorial Psalm).

In his last public address, his Urbi et Orbi message on Easter Sunday, Pope Francis left us with an expression of paternal wisdom that connects humility and hope. If we "place our feeble hands in God's strong and mighty hand" and appreciate that Christ crucified is risen still, then "hope is no longer an illusion," but an expectant vision of entering into the Kingdom to which God has invited us all.

"Every one who exalts himself will be humbled, but the one who humbles himself will be exalted"

Luke 14:11

Prayer with Scripture

How does humility put and keep us in a good place?

Practically, how can we be "poor" in a positive sense?

What motivates us more: fear or beauty?
