Presented by the New York State Office of Court Administration, Division of Alternative Dispute Resolution, in collaboration with the Continuing Legal Education Institute of the New York County Lawyers Association.

➔ Become a Volunteer Arbitrator

Each year hundreds of attorneys and clients seek assistance from trained volunteer arbitrators just like you to resolve disputes about legal fees fairly and efficiently.

➔ About the training

You will learn how to arbitrate for the Fee Dispute Resolution Program, including how to analyze evidence, determine whether an attorney's fee is reasonable, and write an award. In addition to an overview of the Program, the seven-hour training also includes a discussion of arbitrator ethics and a segment on diversity, inclusion, and the elimination of bias.
