Autism in the Workplace

Awareness & Support Training

Practical, evidence-based training that helps organizations support autistic employees, reduce miscommunication, and strengthen team performance — without lowering expectations.

Why This Training Matters

- 1 in 45 adults in the U.S. is diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). Families, educators, employers, and community members interact with autistic individuals every day, making foundational knowledge and skills increasingly important.
- Many autistic adults thrive at work, but may struggle in environments that lack acceptance, clear communication, or sensory awareness.
- Without the right tools and understanding, well-intentioned manager and colleague responses can unintentionally create barriers.
- This training helps organizations move from good intentions to effective, practical support that improves retention, communication, and workplace outcomes.

What Your Team Gains

- Clear, supportive communication strategies that reduce misunderstandings
- Tools to recognize early signs of stress or overload and respond effectively
- Practical accommodations that support performance and consistency
- A more inclusive, respectful workplace culture that maintains high expectations
- Identification of needs and accommodations that support customers and align with business objectives
