Curiosity University
Milestones to the Moon: The Real Story of the Space Race Aug. 12th @ 2:30 PM in Wesley Hall. We think of the "Space Race" many of us picture President Kennedy's electrifying 1961 challenge to land a man on the Moon before the decade's end. We recall John Glenn's historic orbit aboard Friendship 7, and Neil Armstrong's iconic "giant leap" in 1969. But the reality of the Space Race was far more complex and far more precarious. For much of the 60's, the Soviet Union appeared to be winning. As late as 1966, they were widely seen as the frontrunners in space exploration.

So how did the United State manage to pull ahead and claim victory? Join us to uncover the full story behind one of the most dramatic scientific and geopolitical competitions of the 20th century.
