

“Love does no evil to the neighbor;
love is the fulfillment of the law.”
(Rom 13:10)

This Sunday's reading and the reading from two weeks ago are the only passages in which the term “church” (ekklesia) occurs in all four Gospels. The Greek word ekklesia may be translated as an “assembly” or “congregation” and literally means “the called-out ones.” And what are the ones called to be? In the first few verses of this Sunday's Gospel, you and I are called to be our neighbor's keeper. We, as individuals and ultimately as the church, are called to hold each other accountable to the truth of the gospel and the way to salvation. If a brother or sister sins against us, Jesus instructs us to provide fraternal correction—to tell them their fault, first as an individual, then in the company of two or three witnesses, and if necessary, as the church, members of the Mystical Body of Christ.

Each one of us needs “the called-out ones” to hold us accountable because we are all sinners who need our neighbor's help to keep on the narrow path to eternal life. Similar to the Prophet Ezekial in this Sunday's first reading, you and I have been appointed as a watchman for the house of the Lord and are called to be our neighbor's keeper. Our call is a sacred duty with eternal consequences. To paraphrase the prophet's responsibilities as commanded by the Lord: “If you do not speak out to dissuade the wicked from his way, I will hold you responsible for his death.”

How do we, the church, live out this awesome responsibility? How do we hold each other accountable? The second reading from St. Paul's letter to the Romans provides the key: “Owe nothing to anyone, except to love one another; for the one who loves another has fulfilled the law... Love does no evil to the neighbor; hence, love is the fulfillment of the law” (Rom 13:8,10). Out of love for each other and with love flowing from God's mercy, each of us can gently but faithfully offer fraternal correction when our brother or sister in Christ sins against us—and if your brother or sister listens to you, you have won them over (cf. Mt 18:15).

Jesus has called us out to be our neighbor's keeper with love and mercy. St. Paul summed up all of the commandments regarding righteous relationships with others by reiterating the command of Jesus to “love your neighbor as yourself.” An element of this command is our duty and responsibility to prudently offer gentle-yet-firm correction to our brothers and sisters in Christ when they stray. Aware of our own faults and failings, we may feel hypocritical—unworthy and unfit for this challenging task. However, the holiness of the church rests not upon the ones who are called out but upon the One who calls—and the spotless Lamb of God gives us the promise and assurance: “If two of you agree on earth about anything for which they are to pray, it shall be granted to them by my heavenly Father. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them” (Mt 18:19-20).

Keep the faith!

Deacon John

PARISH FEAST DAY

SEPTEMBER 12-13

WHAT IS IT?

Our Lady of the Black Hills celebrates our parish feast day each year on or around both the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the Most Holy Name of Mary. We do this because we are remembering Mary as the patron and namesake of our parish.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

Celebrating the parish feast day is an important time in a parish community because it is an opportunity for us to reflect upon our patron, ask in a specific way for her continued guidance and also offer her our prayers. As a parishioner of Our Lady of the Black Hills, each of us is called to remember Our Lady in a special way. Think of this woman who said yes to God's call in her life, and how being born without sin allowed her to freely bear God's son.
