

ALLEGHENY PETROLEUM NEW TANK STORAGE FACILITY

BOONVILLE, INDIANA

Jerry Aigner Construction, Inc. oversaw the construction of a new tank storage facility, built next to their existing facility. Jerry Aigner Construction also provided the concrete services necessary to install helical piers, a thickened slab with a perimeter skirt wall to contain any potential spills, and extra rebar to handle the additional load from each tank. We worked alongside the owner's engineer to accommodate any special engineering considerations that were needed.
