Ever-living God, you give life and desire a future for all your children. Take hold of our nation, state, and community and awaken in every heart awe for the gift of life. Send your Spirit to strengthen us with wisdom and fortitude as we defend mothers and children in Missouri from laws that disregard their health and safety. Mary and Joseph trusted in you and welcomed Jesus into our broken world. God Almighty, we ask their intercession to protect the preborn and their mothers, and to guide all parents in raising their children. May they help us build a civilization of love by upholding the sacredness of life and accompanying pregnant women in need. We ask this through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Hey Deacon!

By Deacon Dan Vaughn

Archbishop Fulton Sheen: A Modern-Day Influencer of the Gospel

A week ago, my wife Beth and I traveled to St. Louis to attend the beatification Mass of Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen. The celebration brought together clergy, religious, families, and thousands of faithful whose lives have been touched by his witness. Being present was a powerful reminder that holiness is not just a reality of the past. It remains alive and urgently needed in our world today.

As I stood among the over 50,000 who came to honor this remarkable servant of God, one thought kept returning to me: if Archbishop Sheen were alive today, he would be recognized as one of the most effective Gospel influencers the Church has ever known.

Long before social media transformed communication, Sheen mastered the art of reaching hearts through the media tools of his time. His Emmy Award-winning television program Life Is Worth Living attracted audiences of up to 30 million viewers each week, while his radio broadcasts reached millions more. Armed with little more than a chalkboard, a warm smile, and a compelling message, he made the Gospel approachable, personal, and hopeful. He did more than use media; he helped shape the culture.

What made him so influential?

First, Sheen saw media as a missionary field. Much like today's evangelizers use podcasts, livestreams, and social platforms, he used radio and television to meet people where they were. He communicated with clarity, beauty, and a deep understanding of the human heart. His message was simple, yet profoundly meaningful.

Second, he communicated truth with charity. In an age when conversations often become divisive and harsh, Sheen's approach remains refreshing. He did not seek to win arguments; he sought to win souls. He invited rather than condemned, encouraged rather than shamed, and drew people toward Christ through authenticity and trust. His influence was rooted not in controversy but in the peace and joy he radiated.

Third, his public presence was always grounded in mission. As National Director of the Pontifical Mission Societies, he inspired tremendous support for missionary work worldwide. His broadcasts were never about promoting himself. They were about building the Kingdom of God.

Pope Leo XIV recently reflected on Sheen's legacy, calling him "a light of faith, hope, and love" whose evangelization touched millions including the pope himself as a child. That is the mark of a true influencer: someone whose witness lives long after the camera stops rolling.

As we celebrate his beatification and give thanks for his life, we are reminded that the world still needs modern-day influencers of the Gospel. Sheen shows us how to do it with clarity, charity, courage, and joy. May his example inspire each of us to bring Christ's light into every corner of our own daily lives.

Witnesses of Faith and Joy at the Beatification of Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen

As I mentioned in my Hey Deacon article, I was among 50,000 who traveled to The Dome at America's Center in St. Louis on September 24, 2026, for the beatification Mass of Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen. The immense crowd, representing almost every U.S. state and several countries including Italy, Poland, and Brazil, reflected the global reach of Sheen's preaching and the deep affection so many hold for him.

The Church's presence was striking. Close to 90 bishops, about 1,000 priests, 1,600 men and women religious, and nearly 250 deacons joined the faithful in prayer. Families, parish groups, young adults, and longtime admirers filled the arena with many carrying rosaries or Sheen's books, eager to witness this long-awaited moment. Before the Mass started, many of the faithful participated in the Sacrament of Reconciliation and/or spent time in Eucharistic Adoration.

The liturgy was marked by beauty and solemnity. A procession of hundreds of clergy entered wearing vestments embroidered with "JMJ" (Jesus, Mary, Joseph), a beloved symbol Sheen wrote atop every page of his notes. Choirs and orchestra filled the Dome with hymns that lifted hearts and gave the vast space a sense of reverent unity. The beatification decree, proclaimed between the Penitential Rite and the Gloria, formally declared Sheen "Blessed," affirming his presence in heaven as worthy of belief.

Several notable witnesses added depth to the celebration. Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle, serving as papal delegate, presided at the Mass and read the apostolic letter from Pope Leo XIV. Archbishop Gabriele Caccia, the apostolic nuncio, concelebrated alongside dozens of bishops. Archbishop Timothy Dolan offered remarks on behalf of the Archdiocese of New York. Paul Cunningham, Sheen's great-nephew, read a brief biography during the liturgy. And in a particularly moving moment, James Engstrom, whose miraculous healing as an infant was accepted as the miracle for Sheen's beatification, helped present a relic from Sheen's remains.

Yet the most powerful witness came from the faithful themselves. Tens of thousands stood together in prayer, gratitude, and joy, revealing that Sheen's mission continues to bear fruit. Their devotion testified that his call to bring souls to Christ remains alive, inspiring believers today to evangelize with courage and love. Here are a few pictures from the event. The Cursillo® Movement pursues two purposes or objectives. The immediate purpose is to provide a conduit for living what is fundamental for being a Christian, namely, the on-going and total conversion of the person.

The end purpose is to vertebrae Christianity in society by means of these persons who live what is fundamental for being Christian (the love of God and neighbor) in their daily lives.

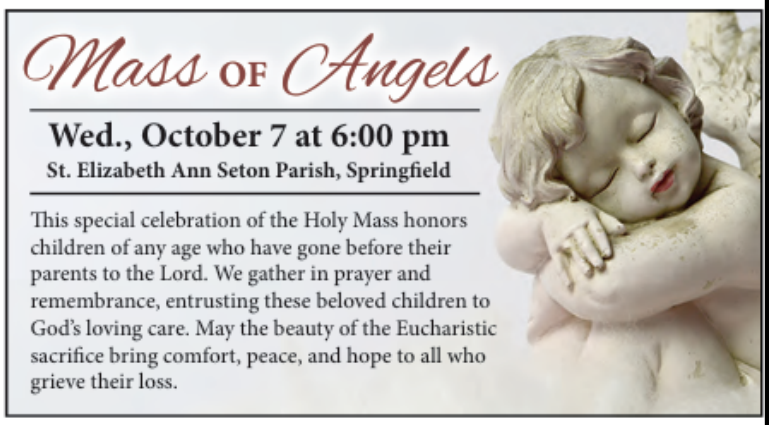

Simply explained, the purpose of the Cursillo Movement is that we become the Good News, and that our actions naturally turn out to be evangelical in our daily lives.

Virtues, Explained!

Magnanimity, writes St. Thomas Aquinas, describes "the stretching forth of the mind to great things." (Sum. II-II, 129, Art. 1) This virtue protects souls from the temptation to do honorable things for intentions that fall short of honorability.

Magnanimity shares much with the virtue of humility, but unlike humility, it specifically seeks what is great — but never the distinction of being called great. A magnanimous person's focus is solely on accomplishing as much good as possible, as effectively as possible.

When Joseph learned that Mary, his betrothed, was with child through the Holy Spirit, he had a chance to distinguish himself as a virtuous man. In calling for Mary's punishment, he could have condemned immorality loudly and publicly, while distancing himself from what appeared to be sin.

Instead, he did the opposite. He did what he knew to be right. He exhibited magnanimity, and the world was never the same.

Sunday's Readings

First Reading

What more was there to do for my vineyard that I had not done?
Why, when I looked for the crop of grapes,
did it bring forth wild grapes? (Is 5:4)

Psalm

The vineyard of the Lord is the house of Israel.
(Is 5:7a)

Second Reading

Keep on doing what you have learned and received and heard and seen in me.
Then the God of peace will be with you. (Phil 4:9)

Gospel

"What will the owner of the vineyard do to those tenants when he comes?"
They answered him,
"He will put those wretched men to a wretched death and lease his vineyard to other tenants."
(Mt 21:41)

Inspiration of the Week

Some build their lives on a foundation of wealth, some on a foundation of power. What do we choose for our cornerstone? What supports the weight of our souls? For the Christian life, there is only one foundation strong enough to hold. Choose wisely.
