PIXI & SPIKE PUPPIES

Linda Buxton

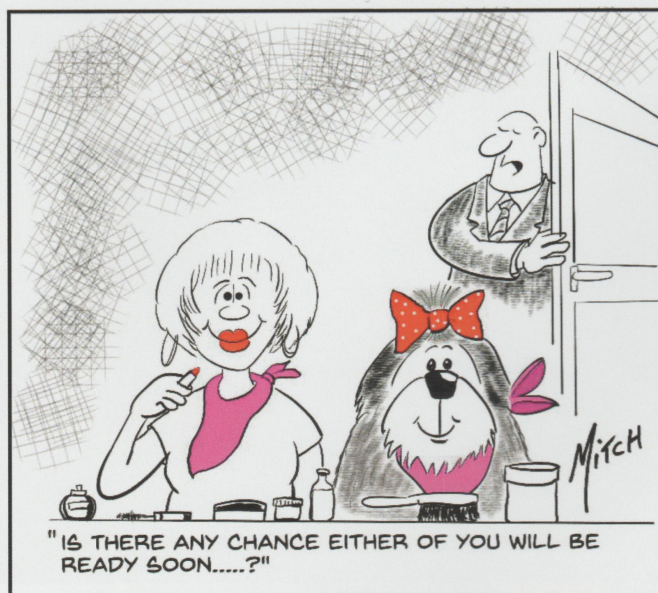

I decided to allow Pixi & Spike to have a litter of puppies, I knew the characters of both and already knew what traits Pixi passed on to her offspring from the previous litter and I had a good idea what Spike would pass on. I believed that the litter would have the best of both parents plus the strong traits, especially when working, that Spike had, hence there would be some very capable strong offspring in the litter.

I am very happy to say that this is an amazing litter and with the puppies now 8 months old, it's great to have the proof I needed to show how crafty, intelligent, strong, kind, loving & cheeky as well as totally loyal the puppies actually are.

Two Irish men, Paddy & Murphy, were working on Battersea Dogs Home in London.

When they arrived at work, Paddy said to Murphy 'I'm going to have a day off'.

He climbed to the top of the scaffolding and hung over the edge shouting 'I'm a light bulb, I'm a light bulb'.

The foreman shouted up to him 'come down you daft beggar, go home, you're not fit to work'.

He turned to Murphy and said 'where do you think you are going?'

Murphy, who was packing his tools away, said 'I'm going home, you don't expect me to work in the dark, do you?'

"I WISH YOU WOULD PRACTICE A SONG THAT BARNEY DOESN'T KNOW!"

The Maggie Fleming Animal Hospice and The Karass Sanctuary

This is the charity that we the WBCS are donating the money to from the raffle at the AGM this year.

In all honesty I truly can't think of a more worthwhile charity.

Please look for them on Facebook.
