Gods Providence House is a Grade 2* listed building. The original building on this site was built in 1524 and it functioned as a Bakery until it was destroyed by fire in 1699 when the owners chose not to adhere to government safety regulations put in place after the Great Fire of London. The building was due to be demolished until it was purchased and restored/rebuilt as you see it now. The building since has been a private residence and a Hardware Shop until it started to operate as a Tea Room/Restaurant in the late 1800's. The flagstones in the foyer and also the main door into the building are original and date all the way back to 1522. The building received its name after the Black Plague came to Newport in 1582 due to this being reputedly the only building in Newport where no-one fell ill or died due to the plague and it was said to have been spared due to 'Gods Providence'.
