Exposing the Hidden Roots of the Evolutionary Agenda

Milt Marcy

April 20th at 9:00 AM

There are three ways to defend the creationist view of origins. We creationists tend to favor using science and there are many excellent scientific arguments to be made. Theologians use the scriptures to show that the Bible does not allow for a non-literal view of origins. The third alternative, and one that Milt Marcy feels can be made by anyone who is not schooled in the first two methods is to show that the people who were originally responsible for bringing millions of years and evolution into the mainstream did so with devious motives. They only sought to destroy Christianity, and did not care much whether their ideas could be scientifically proven. They left behind plenty of written material to hang themselves. You only need to know where to look. Milt will show us.

Milt Marcy is a businessman and owner of an insurance agency for the last 40 years. He is an independent researcher of species thought to be extinct, including an actual sighting of a living pterodactyl in 2015. Milt has worked in central Africa and Papua, New Guinea and is the author of The Emperors Who Had No Clothes, Exposing the Hidden Roots of the Evolutionary Agenda.
