Kailee Foyle is a Commercial Real Estate Agent at Commercial Industrial Properties (CIP) in Austin, Texas, where she specializes in industrial tenant representation and land acquisitions for development across Central Texas.

She works closely with business owners and developers to secure the right industrial spaces, from warehouses and manufacturing facilities to flex buildings that support operational growth and efficiency. On the development side, Kailee helps identify and acquire strategically located land for clients looking to build or invest, with a focus on zoning, infrastructure, and long-term value.

Known for her hands-on and relationship-driven approach, Kailee thrives on helping clients navigate the dynamic Central Texas market with confidence and clarity. She combines data insight with genuine connection, always putting her clients' goals first.

Outside of work, Kailee enjoys spending time outdoors with her dog, Solar, and finding new opportunities for growth and connection in both her professional and personal life.
