INTRODUCTION

Dear Coach,

We are pleased to recommend Giorgia Spolaor for consideration in your Program.

Giorgia is a really motivated person who we feel will do great credit to whichever college program she eventually chooses. She has strong ambitions and desire, coupled with her very good junior tennis development, sporting heritage, and academic abilities.

The results listed below demonstrate continuous improvement in competition, as Giorgia has defeated UTR 9 level opponents, reached the final rounds of tournaments, and won several titles.

Giorgia grew up in a family where her older brothers live abroad, reflecting a family in which a strong work ethic and a willingness to take on new challenges are top priorities. College for Giorgia is the next challenge ahead. We hope Giorgia is of interest to you and look forward to introducing you in due course.

Respectfully,

SUPPORTING INFORMATION

KEY TENNIS RESULTS – SINGLES

Giorgia is a promising Italian tennis player who has distinguished herself through notable achievements at both the junior and advanced competitive levels. Currently, she is concentrating on elite national singles tournaments and the Italian Team Championships, representing her club in Veneto - one of Italy's most competitive tennis regions – which was promoted last year into Serie C for the year ahead.

Giorgia holds an Italian Federation 2.6 ranking and continues to demonstrate dedication and constant growth. Despite a rigorous academic schedule at her school in Rome, she has competed in several ITF junior tournaments, and in various national singles tournaments. She has achieved several good results so far, winning in both singles and doubles. In the last two years she has won four elite national singles tournaments with two additional semi-final appearances, and she was also a finalist in the junior regional championship.

KEY TENNIS INFORMATION

STYLE OF PLAY

Giorgia is naturally built for tennis endurance, allowing her to sustain a high level of performance over long matches. She relies on her outstanding footwork, a dominant serve and explosive groundstrokes both from the baseline and moving forward. Giorgia is a versatile all-court player, capable of adjusting her strategy based on the match or her opponent. From a technical point of view, she demonstrates a remarkable mastery of her backhand, and excellent skills mastering the net, applying constant pressure, both when playing singles and doubles. She opens the game effectively, changes direction with confidence and can create offensive opportunities throughout the match.

CURRENT TRAINING ARRANGEMENTS

Giorgia has been training for the last two years both at her team tennis club, EUROSPORTING TREVISO, with Coach Maria Elena Camerin (former professional tennis player, ex world No. 41 WTA in Singles and No. 33 in Doubles) and with Coach Luciano Perticarolli. She previously trained, since she was nine, with Coach Omar Camporese (former World No. 18 ATP) at ASD GREEN GARDEN. She is currently training at GO ACADEMY, in Switzerland, with Coach Gianluigi Quinzi (ex ITF Junior World No.1).

Her weekly schedule includes 20 hours of tennis and 10 hours of fitness over 5 days.

Training sessions with Gianluigi Quinzi and other high ranked players offer Giorgia a valuable opportunity to improve her tennis technique further and to spar with an experienced professional, as well as with other high ranked tennis players, helping her to raise her game and intensity of high-level tennis. Giorgia's dedication to maintain this demanding schedule demonstrates her commitment to pursuing excellence in both the physical and technical aspects of the sport, aiming to progress steadily within the national and international tennis scene.

PERSONAL REFERENCE

GIORGIA SPOLAOR

For University Admission and Athletic Scholarship Consideration

August 28, 2026

To the Admissions and Athletic Scholarship Committee,

I am pleased to recommend Giorgia Spolaor for admission and athletic scholarship consideration. I coached Giorgia from September 2024 through June 2026, and throughout that period she consistently distinguished herself as a hardworking, attentive, and highly coachable athlete. She listens carefully, engages with feedback, and makes a genuine effort to put every proposed adjustment into practice.

One of the most meaningful steps in Giorgia's development was expanding her competitive experience beyond familiar surroundings. When we proposed a program of international competition, she embraced the opportunity with maturity and enthusiasm. Together, we completed a demanding sequence of ten ITF Junior tournaments across several countries and surfaces culminating in a quarterfinal appearance in Slovenia. This was an important achievement, not only for the result itself, but because it reflected her growing confidence, open-mindedness, and readiness to take on new challenges.

From a technical and tactical perspective, Giorgia made significant progress across every area of her game. Her backhand became a reliable foundation for controlling rallies, while her forehand developed into a genuine attacking weapon. Her serve is another important strength, giving her the ability to begin points with purpose and initiative. Giorgia also demonstrates excellent technical quality at the net: her volleys and smash are all significant strengths. As she continues to integrate the transition from the baseline to the net with greater confidence, these skills will add an increasingly valuable all-court dimension to her game.

What stands out most, however, is the attitude behind this progress. Giorgia approaches training with discipline, curiosity, and respect. She is willing to work, receptive to new ideas, and capable of adapting when the level of competition or the environment changes. The same qualities that supported her development on the international junior circuit will help her thrive in the demanding, collaborative setting of collegiate tennis in the United States.

I strongly believe Giorgia has the character, work ethic, adaptability, and athletic qualities to make a meaningful contribution to a university tennis program. In a motivating team environment, she will bring commitment, positive energy, and a sincere desire to improve. I recommend her with confidence and without reservation.

Sincerely,

Luciano Perticaroli

Tennis Coach & International Sports Consultant

Coach Maria Elena Camerin, former Professional Player, No. 41 WTA in Singles and No. 33 in Doubles

Representing Eurosporting Treviso, Giorgia plays both at competitive national levels and on the international ITF girl's junior circuit. Her excellent physical qualities and exceptional mobility are probably the first thing that stands out when watching her compete. She is able to recover quickly, defend from deep positions and maintain a good level of aggression even in the most challenging phases of a match.

Technical and Tactical Characteristics

Giorgia possesses excellent defensive skills. She uses her speed, anticipation, and athleticism to turn defense into a lethal counterattack on the tennis court. She also has good lateral mobility, which allows her to reach difficult situations and stay in the rallies even when forced to hit from a precarious position. An interesting aspect of her game is her ability to quickly change attitude when the situation calls for it. Despite having a natural predisposition for baseline play, when called upon to advance and play at the net, she demonstrates good speed and responsiveness, managing to move effectively in the forward zone of the court.

Training Attitude

Giorgia approaches every training session with great seriousness and commitment, always giving her all even during the longest and most demanding sessions. She has a remarkable attitude. She never complains and accepts the workload with openness, maintaining a consistent and positive attitude. What stands out most about her is her remarkable attitude.

Mental and Personality

Giorgia is a very serious and determined young woman, perhaps at times overly demanding of herself. She tends to strive for perfection and wants to fully understand what is required of her, demonstrating curiosity and attention to her own growth. Her commitment to excellence demonstrates her desire to constantly improve and achieve new goals.

Overall Rating

Giorgia is a well-rounded and interesting player, characterized by excellent physical qualities, solid defensive skills, good mobility at the net, dedication, and determination. Her aggressive baseline performance and strong work ethic provide a solid foundation for her tennis development."

Maria Elena Camerin

Coach Omar Camporese, former #18 ATP, coach of Giorgia since she was nine years old.

I'm Omar Camporese, an Italian tennis coach and former ATP world No. 18. I coached Giorgia from the age of 9 to the age of 14. Giorgia is a player with great technical talent and excellent athletic conditions. She had great vision of the game and a fighting spirit. She was incredibly smart, and she knew exactly how to manage a match. She was a highly motivated player, and she was always eager to learn. Giorgia represented the region of Veneto during her junior years and was among the strongest Italian female tennis players at the national level. I strongly believe Giorgia can turn her talent into a professional tennis career.

GIORGIA'S PERSONAL STATEMENT

"Before I ever picked up a racket, I found my inspiration."

Some of my earliest memories are sitting on the couch with my parents, watching Novak Djokovic compete on television. I was eight years old, and although I didn't fully understand the tactics or the pressure of professional tennis, I was fascinated by the way he fought for every point, never gave up, and always believed in himself. Those matches sparked something inside me that would eventually change my life.

Not long after, I picked up a racket for the first time in Scorzè. My godfather, who has always been passionate about tennis, introduced me to the sport and encouraged me to try it. What started as simple curiosity quickly became something much bigger. Every practice made me fall more in love with the game, and I realized that tennis wasn't just a hobby—it was where I felt happiest and most alive.

As the years passed, tennis became part of who I am. The court taught me lessons that go far beyond winning and losing. It taught me discipline when training became difficult, resilience after painful defeats, humility in victory, and determination when facing stronger opponents. Every challenge helped shape not only the athlete I am today, but also the person I continue to become.

Djokovic has remained my greatest inspiration throughout my journey. His relentless work ethic, mental strength, and passion for constant improvement remind me every day that success is built through commitment, sacrifice, and belief in yourself. Whenever I step onto the court, I try to bring that same mentality with me.

Today, I compete at a high level, constantly pushing myself to improve both physically and mentally. Balancing competitive tennis with my academic responsibilities has taught me how to manage pressure, stay organized, and remain focused on my goals. Every tournament, every victory, and every defeat has made me stronger and more determined.

My dream is to continue my academic and athletic journey in the United States. A scholarship at an American university would be a great opportunity for me to compete at a very high level while studying at the same time. I want to challenge myself against talented athletes from around the world, grow as a player and as a person, and contribute to my future college tennis team with dedication, positivity, and perseverance.

For me, tennis has never been just a sport. It is the journey that began in front of a television watching Djokovic playing, continued training on the courts with coach Omar Camporese first and all the other great coaches I had the opportunity to train with, and has grown into the passion that defines who I am today. I know the road ahead will not always be easy, but I also know that every challenge is another opportunity to become better.

Tennis is my passion, my motivation, and the foundation of the future I am determined to build.
