When it comes to volunteering, the United States falls below the global average. But since when has Denver been a trend follower?

Local visionary leader and organizer Angela Schnaubelt believes that people want to volunteer but aren't sure how, which is why she organized a recent Volunteers Rock! Expo at East Community Center in Littleton, with plans to make it an annual event.

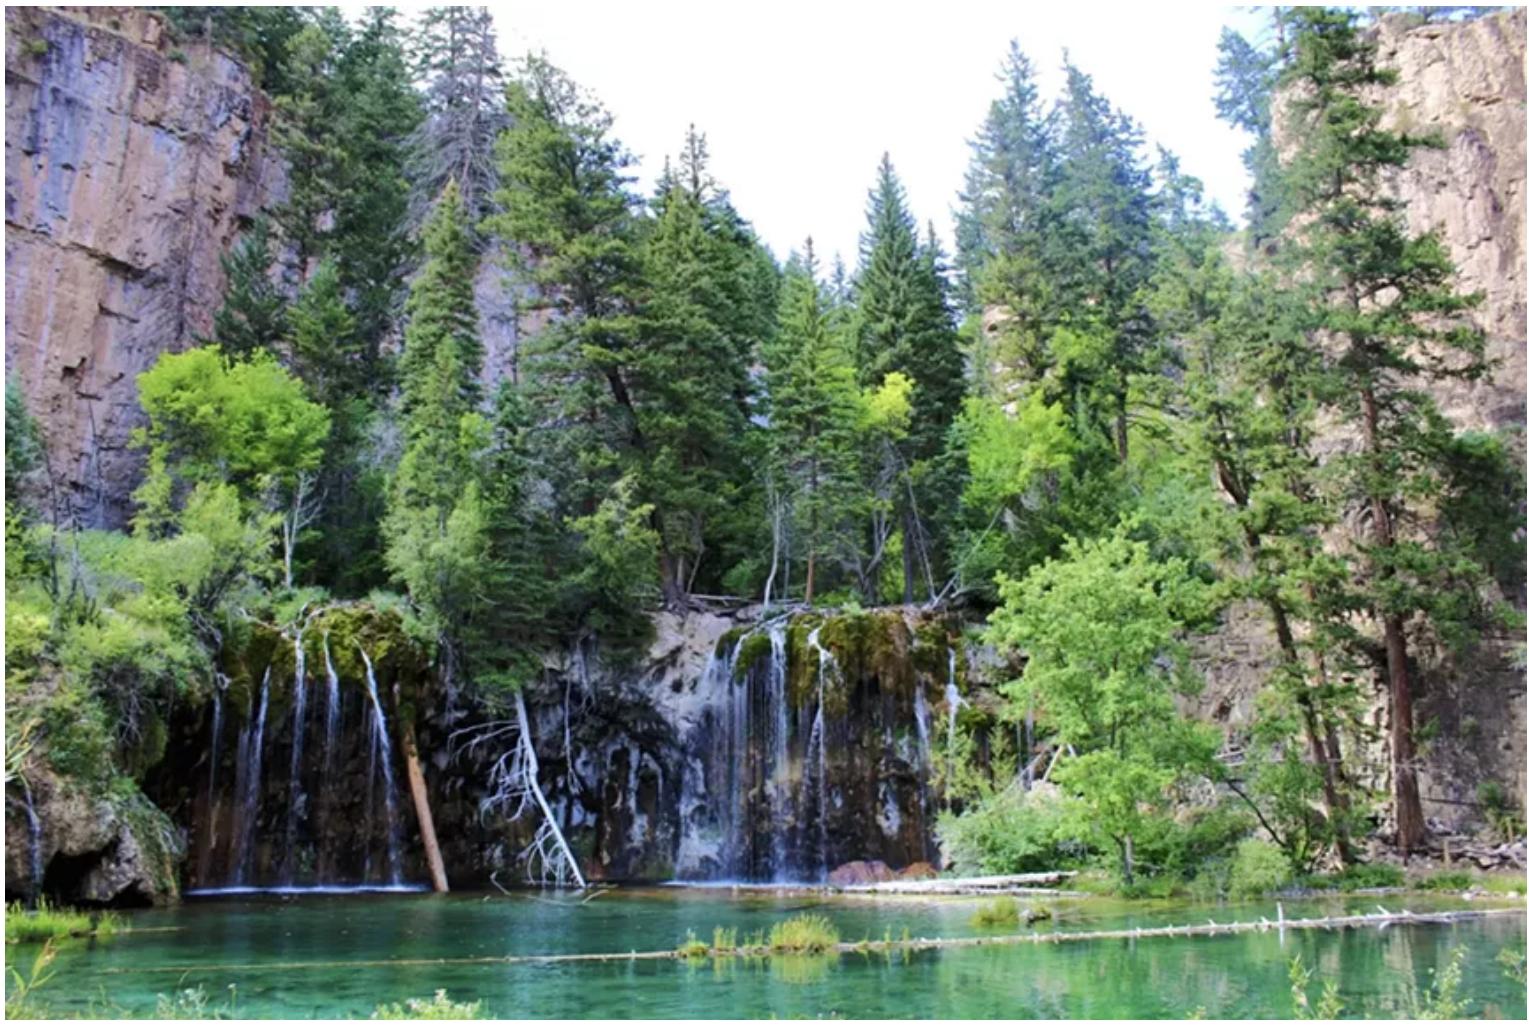

While people might drag their feet when it comes to volunteering because of the time commitment on top of their jobs, Schnaubelt says it doesn't have to be that difficult. "They'll say, 'I can't do three hours a week,'" Schnaubelt says. "No one's asking you to do three hours a week. What if you did three hours a year?"

Schnaubelt recommends that potential volunteers determine their time commitment and then pick a cause that resonates with them, whether it's homelessness, pet rescue, food insecurity, veterans, environment or more. Those looking for volunteer opportunities can also use websites like volunteermatch.org.

Or they can keep reading. Here are ten local organizations in need of volunteers:

Animal Rescue of the Rockies

Animal Rescue of the Rockies is a nonprofit Colorado corporation that was organized in 2003 by a group of friends who wanted to provide an alternative to shelter environments. It works with foster homes to give homeless pets the chance to socialize in a home environment, giving the animals the advantage of transitioning to their new forever homes much more easily and quickly. ARR is looking for volunteers to help with administrative tasks, foster dogs or cats, help out at adoption events or just give a pet a ride to the vet or a new home. Apply online.

The Volunteers for Outdoor Colorado season runs April through October.

Outdoor Colorado

Get outdoors and do good while you're there. The Volunteers for Outdoor Colorado season runs April through October, and registration is now open for April, May and June volunteering. Opportunities exist for groups, families and individuals, including trail construction, park improvements, tree planting and more. Outdoor Colorado is the state's oldest outdoor stewardship nonprofit organization; its mission is to motivate and enable people to become active stewards of Colorado's natural resources.

ReCreative

765 Santa Fe Drive

ReCreative, a secondhand arts supply store in the Arts District on Santa Fe, is a nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting creativity, community and environmental stewardship through creative reuse and arts education. The store is looking for volunteers from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the second Saturday of every month to help sort through donations. Snacks, refreshments and a 10 percent off token will be provided; sign up and find other volunteer opportunities with ReCreative online.
