At this time, all parishioners have an opportunity to offer their feedback as part of a consultation to aid Bishop Manuel de Jesús Rodríguez in his leadership of the Diocese of Palm Beach. Part of the process is the Disciple Maker Index (DMI), which will seek to give Bishop Manuel a snapshot of Catholic life here, who the parishioners are, and what is working well or needs attention in parishes. As the bishop explains in a video promoting the DMI, the survey is available until November 24, 2026.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION & FAITH FORMATION

THE BEAUTIFUL PARADOX OF GIVING

If you give something away, logically, you would expect to have less, right? It's simple math.

I heard someone say this on the radio the other day. While I don't remember the context, the idea stayed with me and got me thinking about the beautiful paradox of service: when we give ourselves to others, we often receive far more in return. Something beautiful happens: instead of having less, you gain so much more. When we give our time, share our talents, offer a helping hand, or simply take the time to make someone feel seen and valued, we receive blessings that cannot be measured. We experience the joy of making a difference, the fulfillment of knowing we have helped someone, and the satisfaction of using our gifts for something greater than ourselves. We may begin with the intention of helping another person, but often, we discover that we are the ones who have been blessed in return. Service has a way of changing our hearts. It teaches us gratitude, opens our eyes to the needs of others, and reminds us that even the smallest act of kindness can have a lasting impact. But that is the beauty of giving: we don't serve for recognition or reward; we serve because we have something to offer and someone who may need it.

This is the beautiful paradox of Christian service: the more we give of ourselves, the richer we become in the things that truly matter. Jesus showed us this through His own life. He gave His time, His love, His compassion, and ultimately, His very life for us. He calls us to follow His example, not because we have an abundance of time or energy, but because love is meant to be shared. When we serve others, we become instruments of God's love in the world. And in the process, we discover that giving doesn't diminish us; it transforms us. We grow in faith, deepen our relationships, find purpose, and experience a joy that comes from knowing we have made someone else's journey a little easier. In the end, perhaps the real math of service is this: the more love we give away, the more love we discover within ourselves. Love continues to multiply, and the blessings we receive in return are innumerable.

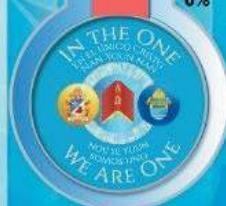

Thank you to everyone who has already donated.
We are truly grateful. For those who haven't yet donated we kindly ask you to consider making your contribution.
We're eager to close out this campaign as soon as possible.
Blessings to you and your Family.
