

ABOUT SHARMAIN

Sharmain Harris is a nationally recognized speaker, author, a prison reentry strategist who transformed his prison sentence into a platform for a purpose. After serving time behind bars, Sharmain rebuilt his life, earning multiple degrees, receiving a Governor's Pardon, and becoming one of the country's leading voices on successful prison reentry.

He now trains government agencies, schools, and workforce programs on how to engage, empower, and uplift fathers, returning citizens, and at-risk youth. Sharmain brings a rare combination of lived experience, academic insight, and human-centered design skills, delivering messages that shift mindsets and spark action.

Whether he's speaking on stage, leading workshops, or consulting with leadership teams, Sharmain delivers one message with conviction:

"Your doesn't define you... It refines you."
