

Sponsorship Opportunities

The Career-Connected L/Earning Conference invites participants across the education-to-workforce ecosystem to engage in this exciting, future-focused conference. No single policy, program, or organization can solve the complex problems of educational attainment and social mobility alone. Join us and let's work together to drive collaboration to build education-to-workforce systems that support every learner on their path to family-living wage employment and economic opportunity

2026 Career-Connected L/Earning Conference

At the Career-Connected L/Earning Conference on October 29–30, 2026, The Attainment Network in partnership with Peak Education, Colorado Equitable Economic Mobility Initiative (CEEMI), and Business & Education Alliance, will bring together leaders from K–12, higher education, industry, government, and philanthropy at a moment of major statewide alignment and action. With Colorado elevating The Big 3—postsecondary credit, work-based learning, and industry-recognized credentials—and doubling down on coordinated postsecondary and workforce transformation, this year's conference will offer timely space to explore what this shift means for communities, institutions, and learners.

Participants will dig into emerging practices from the state's new regional workforce plans, strengthen connections across K–12 and higher education, and engage with actionable strategies for high-quality career-connected pathways. Evidence-building and the use of meaningful, learner-centered data will be woven throughout, supporting partners as they measure progress, refine strategies, and continuously improve outcomes. A strong focus on career advising and navigation will anchor the program, helping the field make sense of the growing opportunities and translate them into equitable experiences for learners and earners.

Through dynamic workshops, compelling speakers, and collaborative problem-solving, attendees will leave with tools, partnerships, and shared clarity to advance their local, regional, and statewide work. The conference continues to grow—after selling out in previous years, we're expanding to a larger venue to accommodate up to 600 participants.

Conference Partners

New Location: Beautiful Colorado Springs

This conference will be held at The Antlers Hotel in Colorado Springs. The city's commitment to education, a diversified economy, low unemployment rates, and a strong quality of life is a prime example of economic and workforce development success in Colorado and a model for other regions aiming to bolster their economic growth and workforce capabilities. With a population exceeding 480,000, Colorado Springs has seen a 20% increase in job opportunities since 2010, particularly in sectors such as technology, healthcare, and aerospace. The city is home to over 15 institutions of higher education, which collectively produce a skilled workforce equipped for today's job market. The region has a strong retention rate of graduates entering the workforce, thanks to initiatives that connect educational programs with local businesses. This collaboration between education and economic development positions Colorado Springs as an exemplary representation of how Colorado fosters workforce readiness and highlights the vital importance of collaboration in driving sustained growth in the state.
