What Our Clients Say

Our team has supported capital projects at some of the most demanding food and beverage plants in North America. We bring calm to chaos, structure to speed, and visibility to every phase of your build.

"We brought (Perry) in to coach us on better capital project execution. They quickly discovered a massive oversight on an active project. Everyone who was there that day literally owes their lives to the Perry team for preventing a combustible dust explosion that most certainly would have occurred had they not stepped in. We've hired the Perry team to oversee all of our capital projects since that day."

Phil G. - Plant Engineering & Facilities Manager,
Kellogg Atlanta, GA

"I had a $42 million dollar capital project that was creating daily headaches. Contractors were failing to follow our rules and regulations, forcing work stoppages. The schedule began to slip which threatened to push us beyond our start up date. PCM came in and quickly got things under control. Now, I don't start a capital project without them."
