DAMIEN THOMSON

DAMIEN IS A POLITICAL ADVISOR TO THE LEFT GROUP IN THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT, WORKING IN THE ENVIRONMENT, PUBLIC HEALTH AND FOOD SAFETY (ENVI) COMMITTEE.

His particular focus in this committee is on the body of EU legislation on climate, biodiversity and circular economy legislation. As part of his job, he negotiates on behalf of members of the European Parliament in the left political grouping, for increased environmental ambition and a just ecological transition. His aim is negotiations to achieve political action commensurate with the environmental and social challenges we face. Among other files, he is currently working on the EU nature restoration law, the new EU soil monitoring law, and the new carbon removals certification framework. He also follows international climate and environmental developments and the EU's involvement in them, notably with the UNFCCC and CBD. Damien has a degree in law and political science from Trinity College Dublin.