

Cycle of an Egg

During an egg's journey towards ovulation, there is a period of time when certain factors can affect the health of the eggs that are preparing for ovulation. As an egg takes around 90 days to become ripe for ovulation, any changes you make will take at least three months to have an effect.

