BLEED & TRIM

It is required that all artwork be supplied with trim marks and sufficient bleed where-ever possible. This is especially critical for work that has “edge to edge”printing.

All work requires a minimum bleed of 3mm, on each side of the artwork.

If additional bleed is required for a print to proceed, the artwork will be returned to the Client for adjustment, or Leederville Cameras can make the necessary additions. If Leederville Cameras is required to make an adjustment to a client supplied artwork to make it print-ready, an additional $25 fee will be charged.

It is STRONGLY recommended that all artwork makes use of a 2-3mm margin on all documents, to ensure that critical art, text or design work on the edge of a page is not trimmed off during the production process. While all care is taken to ensure that cuts are accurate, no guarantees are made within 2mm of the edge of an artwork. Designers should ensure that any critical logos, text, design, page numbers, or other art is positioned at least 2-3mm from the outside edge of the page.

If you are unsure if your work meets these requirements, please consult one of our staff who will be happy to review your artwork and advise you accordingly.

The following are the specified print sizes for each standard size outlined in this document:

	Business & Calling Cards	DL Flyers	A6 Flyer	A5 Flyer	A4 Flyer	A3 Flyer
	Length x Width	Length x Width	Length x Width	Length x Width	Length x Width	Length x Width

Margin Size	85 x 50mm	205 x 94mm	100 x 143mm	143 x 205mm	205 x 292mm	292 x 415mm

Acid-free Paper

Paper made from pulp containing little or no acid so it resists deterioration from age. Also called alkaline paper, archival paper, neutral pH paper, permanent paper and thesis paper. All of our Photo papers are acid-free, as are our Photo Albums to help preserve the life of your photos and prints.

Binding

Binding is used to bind or fasten a book together. We offer a variety of binding solutions, such as Wire Binding, Saddle Stapling and Thermal Binding.

Bleed

Bleeds are the “over-print” sections of a document or an image. A print that has an image or text extending all the way to the edge of the page is also known as “full bleed”. If your design extends all the way to the edge of the page, we require that you provide the image with an additional 3mm of bleed, over the final trim size of the image.

CMYK

Cyan, Magenta, Yellow and Black (K - also known as “Key”). These are the colours of the inks that are mixed in most printers to produce all the rest of the colours. Our advanced Epson ink jet printer uses 10 different inks to give you the widest colour gamut and accurate reproductions possible.

Coated Paper

Paper with a coating of clay and other substances that improves reflectivity and ink holdout. The majority of our Photo Printing stocks are coated papers.

Color Gamut

The entire range of hues possible to reproduce using a specific device, such as a computer screen, or system, such as four-color process printing. This can be identified in a number of ways, but some common ones are sRGB, AdobeRGB and PhotoRGB.

Creep

Refers to the moving or shift that happens to the margins in a document when pages are folded during the finishing process of a booklet. The amount of creep can vary depending on the thickness of paper and the number of pages. Creep is something that needs to be considered when binding and designing a book, or you will find parts of the centre pages being removed when the book is trimmed.

Crop Marks

Lines put onto the pages to show where the document or print will be trimmed.

Dye-Sublimation

Rather than putting colour onto the material, dye-sublimation changes the colour of the material instead. We use a Dye Sublimation process on our Aluminium Prints, T-Shirts and Mugs, as well as various other gifting products.

Margin

The distance from the edge of the trimmed page, to the “safe” section of the document. We strongly recommend you keep all important text, logos and images inside the safe margin of the document. While we take every care to ensure that your documents will be trimmed accurately, up to 3mm of drift is tolerated, so we ask that you ensure all important information is a minimum of 3mm from the edge of your artwork.

pp

Printed Pages. Used to define how many pages make up a book. (eg: 24pp) pixels per inch. This is a definition of the resolution of an image. Generally speaking, the higher the PPI, the more data there is in the digital image file, and the larger it can be reproduced.

PPI

RGB

The color space of Red, Green and Blue which computers use to display images on your screen. An RGB computer file must be translated into CMYK in order to be printed accurately.

Saddle Stitch

To bind by stapling sheets together where they fold at the spine, as compared to side stitch. Also called pamphlet stitch, saddle wire and stitch bind. This is common for small booklets and catalogues.

Uncoated Paper

Paper that has not been coated with clay. Also called offset paper. This paper generally has a more matte finish and rougher feel.

Varnish

A glossy finish added to a finished printed product to give it an extra shine and protection against damage. We apply a clear Satin varnish to our Canvas Prints to protect against UV, Water and Abraision.
