

President's Message

By Andrew Reilly, President

One of the most valuable ideas I have learned from living in the multi-ethnic, multi-cultural islands of Hawai'i is kuleana (koo-lee-an-a), a concept that loosely translates as responsibility, usually of a reciprocal nature. For example, Islanders have the responsibility of nurturing the land, and the land, in turn, nurtures the people. I view ITAA as my kuleana; I help take care of ITAA so that ITAA can take care of all of us. With this in mind, I am very excited that Council has approved two new committees that will benefit our organization and its members, and I ask that members reciprocate by offering to assist with the work of these committees.

2023 ITAA Faculty Awards

By Young-A Lee, Vice President of Awards

Each year, ITAA recognizes our professional members in the areas of teaching, conducting research or contributing service in our discipline. Candidates demonstrate excellence in their respective award categories, are active in ITAA, and demonstrate professional leadership. We will have an opportunity to congratulate the faculty award winners in person at the 2023 ITAA Annual Conference in Baltimore, MD, November 8-11, 2023. It is still great to applaud each winner's accomplishments in advance through the newsletter. Please take your time to click through and read about the accomplishments of the following aspirational and inspirational members. Deadlines for faculty awards is February 1 each year.

Professional Development Seminars Committee

By Charles Freeman, Vice President of Professional Development

The Council is excited to announce the formation of a new committee within our organization called the Professional Development Seminars Committee. This standing committee will organize and coordinate seminars outside of our annual conference. The primary goal of this committee is to provide professional development opportunities for all members of the organization, including professionals, graduate students, and undergraduate students.

Corporate Partnership Committee

By Jung Ha-Brookshire, President Elect

I am excited to share that the council has approved to form a new committee called "Corporate Partnerships Committee." The thought of this new committee was originated from the strategic planning that we all conducted last few years. We are excited to see one of the key action items are now being implemented. This committee will look for corporate partnership opportunities that will benefit overall membership of ITAA.
