FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Minster Bank Staff Donate to Nate Niekamp Memorial Fund

(Minster, OH – August 19, 2026) During the month of July, Minster Bank staff raised funds for the Nate Niekamp Memorial Fund through the bank's Casual for a Cause initiative. The donation reflects the bank's ongoing commitment to supporting local communities and making a positive impact on the lives of others.

The Nate Niekamp Memorial Fund was established in memory of Nate Niekamp, the son of Minster Bank Credit Manager, Cheryl Niekamp. Nate was diagnosed with a rare form of cancer as a high school freshman in 2018. Before his diagnosis, Nate was a talented football and basketball player who loved being active and competing.

Following his treatment, Nate lost feeling and movement in his foot and was no longer able to participate in the sports he loved. His family encouraged him to try golf where he quickly found a new passion for the sport and excelled on the course. Golf became something he looked forward to and an important part of his life.

Nate lost his battle with cancer in August 2022. In his memory, the Nate Niekamp Memorial Fund provides donations to local families with children battling cancer and other medical issues. It also provides two scholarships to senior golfers participating in the annual Nate Niekamp Invitational, helping carry on Nate's love for the sport while supporting the next generation of student-athletes.

Funds raised through Minster Bank's Casual for a Cause initiative will directly support the Nate Niekamp Memorial Fund, its efforts to assist local families and honor Nate's legacy. Through Casual for a Cause, staff members dress casually on designated days in exchange for a donation, giving teammates an opportunity to come together in support of meaningful causes in the communities we serve.

Minster Bank is grateful for the opportunity to support Cheryl and the Niekamp family and to honor Nate's memory through our Casual for a Cause initiative.

Success Story

KOSEI Drives Energy Innovation in St. Marys, Ohio

Efficiency projects help the manufacturer save millions

Eric Wendel and Tom Gatton love problem-solving. Both facilities engineers at KOSEI, a global manufacturer of aluminum car wheels with a plant in St. Marys, Ohio, Wendel and Gatton can often be found tweaking various systems in pursuit of optimal performance. When the company was looking for ways to stay competitive and save on operating costs while meeting its sustainability goals, the pair's safety and environmental coordinator, Keary Siegrist, suggested reaching out to a familiar resource in Efficiency Smart.

Since 2012, KOSEI has partnered with Efficiency Smart, an energy efficiency program offered to customers of St. Marys Municipal Electric System. Efficiency Smart helps businesses find ways to use less energy and save money. The program offers technical assistance, financial support, and an ongoing partnership with energy experts. As KOSEI has grown over the years, the company has consulted with Efficiency Smart on a range of energy-saving projects. "Efficiency Smart is just phenomenal to work with," says Siegrist.

Efficiency Smart is just phenomenal to work with.

Keary Siegrist, Safety and Environmental Coordinator, KOSEI

Lighting improvements bring big savings

Lighting was one of the plant's biggest energy users, so the company embarked on a multi-year effort to upgrade its fixtures to LEDs. But it wasn't as simple as screwing in new bulbs. Efficiency Smart's engineering consultants helped identify heat-resistant fixtures that could withstand the manufacturing environment. They also analyzed how much KOSEI could expect to save annually and in the long run by investing in LEDs. "Efficiency Smart's analysis made it easier for us to get approval for these projects," Wendel says. KOSEI received rebates to help offset the upfront cost of each incremental lighting improvement. The facility is now saving more than $150,000 a year on lighting alone.

Finding solutions for compressed air

KOSEI's manufacturing process requires compressed air, which is energy-intensive. After consulting with Efficiency Smart, Wendel and Gatton set up meters in all nine electrical substations to track electricity usage from specific equipment. The data allowed the team to establish a baseline and identify which equipment was using the most energy. They were surprised to find that on weekends, when the plant was empty, one of the air compressors was running at full capacity.

Wendel and Gatton had a hunch that they could get the plant down from three compressors to two, but they weren't sure exactly how it would work. They replaced a header pipe, which increased the airflow. Then they experimented with adjusting the air pressure. They later called in a contractor for additional support. "We were pretty tickled when the contractor was impressed by what we had done so far," Gatton says.

Eventually, the tinkering paid off: The team was able to eliminate one of the air compressors. "It was a lot of trial and error," Gatton says, and he's proud of the result. With Efficiency Smart's help, KOSEI was able to measure and verify the savings from eliminating an air compressor. The plant is using 12% less energy than it was before. It also reduced the time and money spent on maintenance.

A leader in sustainability

KOSEI's work with Efficiency Smart over the years has paid off in a big way. The company has completed nearly 20 energy-saving projects, including upgrades to lighting, motor controls, and compressed air systems. These improvements are saving the St. Marys facility over $300,000 annually in operating costs. And in alignment with KOSEI's commitment to sustainability, these improvements are also preventing more than 3,000 tons of carbon dioxide from entering the atmosphere—the equivalent of removing nearly 800 cars from the road. This carbon reduction is fully supported by KOSEI's primary client, which aims to be carbon neutral by 2050.

AMERICAN PICKERS is a documentary series that explores the fascinating world of antique “picking” on The History Channel. What every business owner needs

As a business owner, you have many things to consider beyond your daily responsibilities. While you have many priorities, we have one. Our sole focus is to understand and help you achieve what's most important to you — and your business.

How we help you reach your personal and business financial goals

We'll work together with your tax and legal professionals through an established process to build personalized strategies for you — including specific actions — to help you reach your personal and business financial goals. Over time, we'll continue to revisit these goals, your comfort with risk and the strategies we've developed to help keep you on track.

Where personal and business needs meet

Few things are more rewarding — or challenging — than owning your own business. And because it's become an integral part of your life, you'll need a comprehensive financial strategy for your future, your business and your family.

Your business

Having the appropriate investment and protection strategies is a critical step in helping you reach your goals.

Your family

Establishing a strategy can help you and your family save for multiple goals — such as retirement and education — and prepare for the unexpected.

Your employees

Offering a retirement plan can help attract and retain quality employees and may provide tax advantages.

Your exit strategy

Developing strategies is important so you can protect the value of your business, help retain key employees and provide for an orderly transition when you leave.
