Sacramental classes: Attendance Required

First Communion class candidates may not miss more than four classes. Parents will be informed after three absences. To complete the preparation necessary for making First Communion and Reconciliation, the student will need to attend additional classes or complete missed work. These will be determined by the catechist/coordinator and parents.

Confirmation is a two-year preparation time during the sixth and seventh grades and these students may not miss more than four classes each school year. Parents will be informed after three absences each school year. If there are absences, to complete the preparation necessary to receive this sacrament, the student will need to attend additional classes or complete missed work. These will be determined by the catechist/coordinator and parents.

Confirmation Requirement: In addition to a two-year class preparation, students must attend Confirmation classes the fall of their eighth grade year until Confirmation. Every class is mandatory, and if missed, will require make-up time/work.
