The Baptism of the Lord

As we gather on this Feast of the Baptism of the Lord, the Church invites us to enter more deeply into a mystery first revealed at the Jordan River: the revelation of Jesus as God's beloved Son and the beginning of His public mission.

In the Gospel today, we hear a simple yet profound event: Jesus—sinless, holy, Emmanuel—comes to be baptized by John. At first glance, John, the Baptizer, resists: "I need to be baptized by you." But Jesus responds that it is "fitting... to fulfill all righteousness." Immediately after Jesus is baptized, the heavens open, the Spirit descends like a dove upon Him, and a voice thunders from heaven: "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased."

These last words of God the Father in the Gospel for this feast resonate like a heartbeat. They are not simply descriptive—they are declarative and transformative: "This is my beloved Son..." The Father's voice confirms Jesus' identity and mission, establishing the framework for all that follows in salvation history. But listen closely: these words also extend beyond Jesus.

Our first reading, from Isaiah, speaks of God's chosen servant upon whom the Spirit rests—a light to the nations, opening the eyes of the blind and freeing captives. In the second reading from Acts, Peter proclaims that Jesus was anointed with the Holy Spirit and power and went about doing good. Together we hear a consistent theme: the Spirit anoints the Servant for mission—and that mission is for all people.

What does this have to do with our baptism?

At our baptism, we were joined to Christ's death and resurrection, washed in the waters that Jesus sanctified, and claimed as beloved sons and daughters of God. The voice that spoke over Jesus calls out over each of us as well: you are beloved; you are chosen; you are sent. Through baptism, we are joined to Christ's life and mission. It is not simply a moment in our past, but an identity that continues to form who we are and directs where we are called to go.

This feast also marks the liturgical end of the Christmas season. The joyful celebration of Christ's birth culminates today in the revelation of who He is—Son of God, beloved, anointed by the Spirit. Jesus' baptism brings the hidden life of the Incarnate Word into the light of mission. From now on, the season of Ordinary Time will unpack ever more fully what it means for God to be with us—and for us to be sent with Him.

A Message from Our Clergy

Deacon Jared

Friends, as we leave behind the manger crib and step with Christ into the world, let us remember that our own baptism is a daily calling: to live as beloved children, to let the Holy Spirit guide us, and to bring Christ's light to others. May we hear God the Father's voice over and over in our hearts: "You are my beloved—with you I am well pleased." Go forth with that truth.
