Recessional Hymn: Missal #386 To Jesus Christ, Our Sovereign King

Where will we find the king, God?

Last week I was travelling in China and I had the opportunity to meet with university students and lead a masterclass called "The Skills AI Can't Replace." We talked about what it means to be human at a time when technology can do more and more of the the things we once thought only people could do. As I read this Sunday's Gospel, I found myself thinking about a very human experience of traveling far from home. When you're the stranger in a community or culture, you notice the person who takes the moment to help you find your way (especially when you don't speak the language). What seems like a small gesture can make all the difference to me, you.

A Message from Our Clergy

Deacon Jared

On this last Sunday before Advent (the beginning of the new year in the Church), we celebrate Jesus Christ King of the Universe. In Matthew's Gospel, the Son of Man sits on his glorious throne with all the nations gathered around. Then the King tells us where we could have found him along our life journey. He was the hungry and thirsty. He was the stranger looking for a welcome, the sick person waiting for a visit, the prisoner who wondered whether anyone remembered him. "Whatever you did for one of the least brothers of mine, you did for me."

What really struck me was how surprised everyone was. Those who fed, welcomed, and visited him ask when they ever saw him in need. Those who passed him by ask the same question. I wonder how often I would have asked it, too. If I'm being honest, probably too often. It's easy to tell myself I would make time for Jesus if he showed up at my door. It's harder to put down what I'm doing when someone wants to talk and I already feel behind. Yet that person is right in front of me, and Jesus asks me to see him there.

Ezekiel, in the first reading, gives us a picture of the King as shepherd who goes looking for his scattered sheep. He seeks out the lost, brings back those who have strayed, and binds up the injured. An invitation for us to do the same for our strayed brothers and sisters, perhaps? When we pray, "The Lord is my shepherd," we can remember the times someone did that for us. Perhaps they called when we had gone silent, sat with us through an illness, or made room for us when we felt out of place. We know what it means to be sought out. We can do the same for someone who may be wandering whether anyone has noticed their absence.

St. Paul reminds us how far the Shepherd's care reaches. Christ has risen, the first fruits of those who have died, and the last enemy he will destroy is death itself. That promise gives us hope when we sit beside someone whose suffering we cannot take away. We can still visit, we can still be present. We can still listen, we can still love. And we can trust that the person beside us is held by the same Lord who holds us.

Next Sunday, we'll light the first candle of Advent and pray, "Come, Lord Jesus." This week I'm going to ask myself who might need me to make a little more room in my day for them. I encourage you to do the same. Maybe there's a call I've been putting off or someone I can invite to sit with me. As we look ahead to Advent, may we recognize our King in the people already waiting to be welcomed, which brings me to where I began:

Where will we find the king, God?

Onde encontraremos o rei, ó Deus?

Na semana passada, estive viajando pela China e tive a oportunidade de me encontrar com estudantes universitários e ministrar uma aula especial intitulada "As habilidades que a IA não consegue substituir". Conversamos sobre o que significa ser humano em uma época em que a tecnologia é capaz de realizar, cada vez mais, tarefas que antes acreditávamos serem exclusivas dos seres humanos. Ao ler o Evangelho deste domingo, refleti sobre uma experiência profundamente humana: a de estar longe de casa. Quando você é um estranho em uma comunidade ou cultura, você percebe quem dedica um tempo para ajudá-lo a encontrar o caminho (especialmente quando você não fala o idioma). O que parece ser um pequeno gesto pode fazer toda a diferença — para mim, para você.

Uma Mensagem do Nosso Clero

Deacon Jared

Neste último domingo antes do Advento (o início do novo ano na Igreja), celebramos Jesus Cristo, Rei do Universo. No Evangelho de Mateus, o Filho do Homem assenta-se em seu trono glorioso, com todas as nações reunidas ao seu redor. Então, o Rei nos revela onde poderíamos tê-lo encontrado ao longo da nossa jornada de vida: Ele era o faminto e o sedento; era o estrangeiro em busca de acolhida, o enfermo à espera de uma visita, o prisioneiro que se perguntava se alguém ainda se lembrava dele. "Todas as vezes que fizestes isso a um destes meus irmãos mais pequeninos, a mim mesmo o fizestes."

O que realmente me chamou a atenção foi o quanto todos ficaram surpresos. Aqueles que o alimentaram, acolheram e visitaram perguntam quando foi que o viram passando necessidade. Aqueles que passaram por ele sem parar fazem a mesma pergunta. Fico pensando com que frequência eu também teria feito essa pergunta. Sendo sincero, provavelmente com frequência demais. É fácil dizer a mim mesmo que eu arranjaria tempo para Jesus se ele aparecesse à minha porta. É mais difícil deixar de lado o que estou fazendo quando alguém quer conversar e eu já me sinto atrasado com minhas tarefas. No entanto, essa pessoa está bem diante de mim, e Jesus me pede que o veja ali.

Ezequiel, na primeira leitura, apresenta-nos a imagem do Rei como um pastor que sai à procura de suas ovelhas dispersas. Ele busca as que se perderam, traz de volta as que se afastaram e cuida das feridas daquelas que se machucaram. Seria, talvez, um convite para que façamos o mesmo pelos nossos irmãos e irmãs que se distanciaram? Ao rezarmos "O Senhor é o meu pastor", podemos recordar as ocasiões em que alguém agiu assim conosco. Talvez alguém tenha entrado em contato quando nos calamos, tenha permanecido ao nosso lado durante uma enfermidade ou nos tenha acolhido quando nos sentíamos deslocados. Sabemos o que significa ser procurado. Podemos fazer o mesmo por alguém que, talvez, esteja se perguntando se alguém notou a sua ausência.

São Paulo nos recorda a extensão do cuidado do Pastor. Cristo ressuscitou, primícias daqueles que morreram, e o último inimigo que Ele destruirá é a própria morte. Essa promessa nos dá esperança quando estamos ao lado de alguém cujo sofrimento não podemos remover. Ainda podemos visitar, ainda podemos estar presentes. Ainda podemos ouvir, ainda podemos amar. E podemos confiar que a pessoa ao nosso lado está amparada pelo mesmo Senhor que nos ampara.

No próximo domingo, acenderemos a primeira vela do Advento e rezaremos: "Vem, Senhor Jesus". Nesta semana, vou me perguntar quem talvez precise que eu abra um pouco mais de espaço no meu dia para ela. Convido você a fazer o mesmo. Talvez haja uma ligação que venho adiando, ou alguém a quem posso convidar para sentar-se comigo. Ao nos prepararmos para o Advento, que possamos reconhecer nosso Rei nas pessoas que já aguardam ser acolhidas — o que me traz de volta ao ponto de partida:

Onde encontraremos o Rei, ó Deus?
