Hymn of Praise: Missal #272 O Come, O Come Emmanuel

Recessional Hymn: Missal #270 O Come, Divine Messiah

First Sunday of Advent

This weekend we step into Advent, a sacred season of anticipation and hope—a time when the Church invites us to watch, to prepare, and to open our hearts anew to the coming of Christ. The readings for this First Sunday of Advent set the tone with a clear spiritual summons: be awake, be ready, be expectant.

In the first reading from Isaiah, we hear one of Scripture's most compelling visions of peace. Isaiah proclaims a future in which "all nations shall stream" to the mountain of the Lord, where God Himself will teach humanity His ways. It is a vision where people "beat their swords into plowshares," transforming instruments of violence into tools for cultivating life. Advent always begins with this promise: that God is not distant, that His light is breaking into our darkness, and that we are called—right now—to walk in that light.

St. Paul, in the second reading from Romans, intensifies this call by telling us to "wake from sleep" because "our salvation is nearer now than when we first believed." Paul doesn't speak of fear or anxiety but of urgency rooted in hope. He invites us to cast off what weighs down our souls and to "put on the Lord Jesus Christ." Advent, then, is not passive waiting—it is active preparation, a turning of the heart, a recommitment to living as disciples in a world hungry for God's love.

A Message from Our Clergy

Deacon Jared Auclair

Finally, in the Gospel from Matthew, Jesus reminds us that we do not know the hour of His coming. He uses everyday images—people working, living, carrying out normal tasks—to show that the Christian life is not about waiting on a mountaintop, but about living faithfully in the ordinary moments of our days. "Stay awake!" Jesus says. This wakefulness is not restlessness; it is spiritual attentiveness—remaining aware of God's presence and ready to respond in love.

One of the most visible symbols of this season is the Advent wreath, a simple circle of evergreens holding four candles. Each element speaks to the heart of the readings this week. The circle reminds us of God's eternal nature—no beginning, no end. The evergreen branches represent hope and life that endure even in the cold and darkness. And on this First Sunday, we light the first purple candle, often called the Candle of Hope or Prophecy. Its flame pierces the growing winter darkness much like Isaiah's proclamation pierces our world's anxiety and noise.

The slow growing brightness of the wreath mirrors the slow but certain dawning of God's Kingdom in our own hearts. Each candle invites us to reflect: How is Christ asking me to prepare room for Him? Where am I being called to awaken? How can I help bring His light to someone living in darkness?

This week, I encourage each of us to reclaim a sense of holy attentiveness. Perhaps that means spending a few extra minutes in prayer near the Advent wreath at home. Perhaps it means reaching out to someone who needs encouragement. Perhaps it means letting go of a habit or distraction that pulls us away from God.

Advent is God's reminder that He comes not only at the end of time, not only in the Nativity we prepare to celebrate, but into our lives today—into our joys, our struggles, our families, our workplace, our communities. Let us be ready to receive Him.

May this holy season awaken in us a renewed longing for Christ, a deeper hope in His promises, and hearts prepared to welcome Him with joy. Come, Lord Jesus!

In 2031, the Church will joyfully commemorate the 500th anniversary of the apparition of Our Lady of Guadalupe to St. Juan Diego on the hill of Tepeyac, near present-day Mexico City. Pope Francis, before his passing, invited all peoples of the Americas to begin preparing spiritually for this historic celebration. In response to the Holy Father's call, Archbishop Henning is launching an Archdiocesan Novena from December 4 to December 12, 2025. Each evening of the nine-day Novena will be hosted by a different parish and we encourage you to participate in one of the Novena evenings at a hosting parish:
