APICULTURE INFORMATION

The Risk Management Agency's (RMA) Apiculture Pilot Insurance Program (API) provides a safety net for beekeepers' primary income sources – honey, pollen collection, wax, and breeding stock. Apiculture systems consist of different types of plants or crops and often contain mixtures of different species, each with different growth habits and seasons, precipitation requirements, and other climate conditions necessary to maintain plant growth over extended periods of time. API was designed to provide maximum flexibility to cover these diverse situations.

API is available in the 48 contiguous states with the exception of grids that cross international borders.

Coverage is based on your selection of coverage level, index intervals, and productivity factor. The index interval represents a two-month period, and the period you select should be the one when precipitation is most important to your operation.

You select a productivity factor to match the amount of protection to the value of the production that best represents your operation and the productive capacity of your colonies. You do not have to insure all your colonies.

We can adjust coverage and premiums to fit your budget. Premiums range from $3 to $20 per colony depending on coverage level.
