

Trattoria “Della Santa”

La Santa, since 1916, offers traditional Bolognese dishes and those who have visited us know it.

However, not everyone knows the reason for this name.

Often the most curious people peek into our kitchen trying to find Mrs. Santa, but with no success because the name of our restaurant is dedicated to a precious relic that is located a few steps away from us: Santa Caterina de' Vigri, the second patron saint of Bologna and abbess of the Poor Clares who lived in the 15th century.

She was a cultured and literary woman, but it was after her death that the cult of the Saint grew. It happened that, according to the stories handed down, after a couple of weeks following her death the sisters of the cult exhumed Caterina's body and found it intact, with her face still white. It is said that she radiated a scent of flowers. It was therefore decided to preserve her body, placed sitting on a bench. They say that her nails and hair would grow for months.

Today, tourists and churchgoers can admire her body, sitting inside a shrine, in the Corpus Domini church, or church of the Saint, in Via Tagliapietre a few steps from our restaurant.
