The Reminder We Bear

In case you don't have it on your calendars, Ash Wednesday is February 18th! Each year, on Ash Wednesday, we gather together for a service to mark the beginning of the 40 days of Lent. It is an ancient and somber service, one in which we see the physical marker of our mortality and sinfulness. Lent is a season of waiting, of repentance for the ways that we fall short in the face of God, and of reflection on the brokenness of humanity. Ash Wednesday reflects that, by smearing that reminder onto each of our foreheads.

But something that I think is often missed or left out is that Ash Wednesday is also a remarkably hopeful service. In the dust - in the reminder of our brokenness and mortality, is the cross. Even from something as hopeless as death and ash, God in Christ through the Spirit shows up.

I have always found this service beautiful for that exact reason: that even when all seems lost, God is not finished yet. This news comes to us, a broken, despairing, and often discouraged people, as very Good News. Good News that no matter the state of the world, the state of our country, the state of the church, the state of the city, the state of our lives, God is still showing up. And God shows up bringing new life and love.

Think of the dry bones in Ezekiel - the Spirit moves over the pits of death and declares that these bones will no longer be dead, but alive and filled with the breath of God. (Ezekiel 37)

Think of Lazarus - the fear of those gathered and grieving that Jesus would open the tomb and be faced with the stench of death. But Christ tells Lazarus to come out, and from the tomb, Lazarus emerges, impossibly alive. (John 11)

Think of Jesus' own tomb - all of creation cried out with sorrow and anguish as he was killed on the cross. But in the silence of the tomb, in the silence of the despair, the Spirit brings Jesus from the dead and raises him to new life. New life not only for Jesus Christ, but new life for all of humanity. (Matthew 28, Mark 16, Luke 24, John 20)

See, that's what God in Christ through the Spirit does. God is in the business of bringing about new life, and a bit of dust isn't going to stop the work of the Spirit.

So, this year, as we gather to remember our mortality, remember that the sign of our mortality, the outward sign of our sinfulness and death, is shaped like a cross for a reason. God isn't done with us yet. God isn't done with the world yet. And a bit of dust isn't going to get in the way of God bringing about new life. Think of all that God has done and will do with even the dust.

My favorite poet, Jan Richardson, has a well-known blessing for Ash Wednesday about all that God can do with dust. I offer it to you as a closing thought.

Blessing the Dust
For Ash Wednesday

All those days
you felt like dust,
like dirt,
as if all you had to do was turn your face
toward the wind
and be scattered
to the four corners

or swept away
by the smallest breath
as insubstantial –

did you not know
what the Holy One
can do with dust?

This is the day
we freely say
we are scorched.

This is the hour
we are marked
by what has made it
through the burning.

This is the moment
we ask for the blessing
that lives within
the ancient ashes,
that makes its home
inside the soil of
this sacred earth.

So let us be marked
not for sorrow.
And let us be marked
not for shame.
Let us be marked
not for false humility
or for thinking
we are less
than we are

but for claiming
what God can do
within the dirt,
within the stuff
of which the world
is made
and the stars that blaze
in our bones
and the galaxies that spiral
inside the smudge
we bear.

Thanks be to God for the reminder of what all of us are: broken and blazing, smudged and set free.

-Pr. Riley

New Partner Using Our Space!

We are happy to share that the Salvation Army will begin using the old Sunday School Superintendent's office. The SA gives away 90% of the money raised through bell-ringing (which Kiwanis organizes)!

Jason, the SA coordinator, is available by phone call.

If you had something stored in that office, don't worry, nothing has been thrown away. It has been moved into the cabinets. Any questions, please ask Pr. Anthony.

Accessibility Changes Coming to a Church Near You!

Yes, we've announced this before, but we want to remind folks that some changes are on the horizon.

The sanctuary TV (fully funded by an anonymous donor) will be installed soon, increasing visibility and functionality.

The ADA door system will be installed in the Canopy Entrance, making our building fully accessible.

And there is conversation about shifting pews to make seating more comfortable. Please ask the pastors if you have any questions or comments.
