March 2024

Limit Computer and Television:

- Young children's brains are hardwired to learn through doing. That is why exploratory experiences are so much better for their cognitive and language skills than passive experiences like watching TV or playing on a computer.
- Limit television and computer time and look for ways to engage the whole family in activities like board games, creative play and family literacy programs in the community.

Family Support (By appointment): Staff team is available to meet with you on every Friday from 1:30 to 3:30pm either in person or zoom. Please email staff to book your time to discuss about your child's development, parenting information or any other information that you are looking for. Our professional staff team will be happy to assist you.
