

Patient-273

Patient-273 went to Sunrise Children's Hospital. They kept a child waiting with a foreign object in her throat. Nobody would come when the medical alarms went off, and they kept her waiting for a long time to see a doctor. Horrible experience.

Horrible experience!!

Why am I still waiting for my daughter to get a foreign object removed from her throat?

And you are not coming to do rounds like you are supposed to.

Her alarm goes off for minutes and no one comes in to check.

I ask to speak with the doctors to see what's going on, but....still no one has come in here.

It's other things I don't want to mention, but you are horrible in certain situations.

What to Do if There is Something Stuck in Your Child's Throat

Signs that your child has something stuck in their throat

- Difficulty breathing, labored breathing, or choking
- Persistent coughing accompanied by gagging or choking sounds
- Trouble swallowing or pain while swallowing
- Excessive drooling
- Refusing to eat or drink
- Hoarse voice or changes in speech

Dealing with objects stuck in the throat

- If your child is choking or having difficulty breathing, call 911 right away.
- If they can still breathe, but there's an object lodged in their throat, encourage them to cough forcefully to try and dislodge it.
- Please don't attempt to remove the object with your fingers, as it may push it further down.

- As a precaution, we encourage you to seek immediate medical attention in any case of throat obstruction.

Remember, it's crucial to seek medical advice if you notice any of these signs or suspect your child may have a foreign object stuck in their nose, ear, eye, or throat.

Read the article for information about what to do if your child has something stuck in his or her nose, ear, eye, or throat.

Choking

Did You Know?

The most common cause of nonfatal choking in young children is food. At least one child dies from choking on food every five days, and more than 12,000 children are taken to a hospital emergency room each year for food-choking injuries.

Patient-273 went to Sunrise Children's Hospital. They kept a child waiting with a foreign object in her throat. Nobody would come when the medical alarms went off, and they kept her waiting for a long time to see a doctor. Horrible experience.

Just say NO to Sunrise Children's Hospital

FAIR USE NOTICE: This site may contain copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available in our efforts to advance the understanding of environmental, political, human rights, economic, democracy, scientific and social justice issues, and to provide a public service to consumers so they can make informed decisions about their choice of hospitals and surgeons. We believe this constitutes a 'fair use' of any such copyrighted material as provided for in section 107 of the US Copyright Law. In accordance with Title 17 U.S.C. Section 107, the material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving the included information for research and educational purposes.

DISCLAIMER: The contents of this website (including text, graphics and images) are for informational purposes only and do not constitute medical advice. The content is not intended to be a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis or treatment. Always seek the advice of a physician or other qualified health provider with any questions you may have regarding a medical condition. Never disregard professional medical advice or delay in seeking it because of something you have read on this website.

@2026 All Rights Reserved