

WHERE WINE WAS BORN:

The Vineyards of Anatolia

The viticulture culture — a gift from Mesopotamia's 12,000-year agricultural history — continues to thrive across Turkey with its distinctive grape varieties. Anatolia, where the world's first traces of wine production were discovered, remains the proud bearer of this ancient heritage today.

MARMARA VINEYARDS

The Marmara Region is one of the most developed and established areas for wine production. Thrace stands out as a region where both local and international grape varieties, are successfully cultivated and where long-standing producers come together. It also features Turkey's first organized wine route. Among the must-visit stops on this route are Tekirdağ Şarköy, Mürefte, Hoşköy, Kırklareli Pınarhisar, and Lüleburgaz.

AEGEAN VINEYARDS

The Aegean Region is one of Türkiye's most established and high-quality wine-producing areas. Its mild Mediterranean climate, maritime influence, and fertile soils allow for the cultivation of a wide variety of grape types. The Urla Wine Route, in particular, has drawn attention in recent years with its boutique winemaking approach. Additionally, the vineyards of Denizli and Manisa make significant contributions to the region's production diversity.
