	Archaic Text Understanding archaic language gives access to some of the most influential and seminal texts ever written. This is language that is unusual in today's world.	Non-Linear Sequences Standard texts show time unfolding consistently. Non-linear sequences have narratives that leap around and double back on themselves.	Narratively Complex The narrator of the story can sometimes be unreliable: the narrator may not be consistent in his/her story telling of the story. At other times there is more than one narrator and sometimes the plot is so interwoven and complex it takes lots of unpicking to understand what is happening.	Symbolic Text Some texts use metaphor and images whilst others convey an allegorical meaning.	Resistant Text Some texts are deliberately confusing: most poems fall into this category. The reader has to assemble meaning around nuances, hints and clues.
