FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Waiting is a Biblical Thing

Here in Sarita, at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, we are finally getting our metal roof installed on the church building.

This means the parishioners and I are doing a lot of waiting, just like the parishioners and I were waiting for all the foundation work to be completed in Vattmann at Our Lady of Consolation Church last year.

And it gives me to reflect on how waiting is described in the Bible. Waiting is not passive idleness but a spiritual discipline of active dependence on God. It is framed as a period of growth, refinement, and testing that prepares believers for God's timing and purposes.

1. It can lead to Spiritual Growth and Character Building

The Bible views waiting as a "tool of grace" used by God to transform the heart.

—Refines Character: Waiting produces perseverance, which leads to character and hope (Romans 5:3-4).

—Cultivates Virtue: It is the primary environment for developing the "Fruit of the Spirit," specifically patience and self-control (Galatians 5:22).

Teaches Humility: It forces an acknowledgment of human limitations and total dependence on God.

2. Here are a few figures in the Bible who waited.

Waiting is a recurring theme in the lives of central biblical figures:

—Abraham & Sarah: Waited 25 years for the birth of their son, Isaac.

—Joseph: Remained in prison for nearly 12 years before his elevation in Egypt.

—Moses: Spent 40 years in the desert before leading Israel out of Egypt.

--David: Waited years after being anointed as king while being pursued by Saul.

The Israelites: Waited 400 years for release from slavery in Egypt and generations for the Messiah.

3. Here are a few benefits for those who wait

Scripture lists specific spiritual rewards for waiting faithfully:

—Renewed Strength: "Those who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength... they shall run and not be weary" (Isaiah 40:31).

Divine Goodness: "The Lord is good to those who wait for him, to the soul who seeks him" (Lamentations 3:25).

4. Here are some practical examples of waiting biblically.

Waiting is often described as "active" through specific practices:

—Seeking God: Constantly through prayer and scripture meditation.

—Obedience: Continuing to do what God has already commanded while awaiting further instruction.

Hopeful Expectancy: Watching for God's action as a watchman waits for the morning (Psalm 130:5-6).

So, what does this mean for yours truly? Well, I am doing more bible study and praying the rosary before the Blessed Sacrament. Because one thing that I learned from living in rural South Texas... Prayers Work!

See you in prayer! Fr. Andy Sensenig, OMI
