Widening the Vision

BY ALICE CAMILLE

Most of us suffer a benign tunnel vision when it comes to our priorities: my family, my town, my nation, my religion, my dog. We're half-convinced the gospel somewhere says: "Charity begins at home." The most compelling argument for widening the window of our responsibility is because God makes that choice first.

Isaiah first—and often—challenges the insular view of salvation. That wouldn't have been popular. The children of Abraham enjoyed the legacy of being the chosen race, a priestly nation, a royal people, and so on. And it's good to be royal, as Mel Brooks-Louis XVI once declared. It's not an identity most would surrender lightly. The prophetic tradition of universality bumps hard up against the Mosaic tradition of singularity, bruising the national ego.

Yet Isaiah persists in presenting a future of divine blessings scattered across nations and races and tongues. God's favor is not only for Israel anymore. That rankled eighth-century B.C.E. Judeans every bit as much as it did the Jews of Jesus' time when he extended divine medical coverage to households of centurions, Canaanites, and Samaritans. Paul faced the same one-hand-clapping when he announced that Gentiles were being admitted into the Body of Christ. One wonders: Isn't being the beneficiary of God's saving power enough? Is it necessary to be the only ones that merit it? God's favor is a mighty fine thing to have, whether or not it's shared with others or with everyone!

God prepares the banquet on the holy mountain for everyone and destroys the veil of death for all with the same magnanimous gesture. God wants to supply what we need simply because we need it. That is about who God is, not about what you or I have earned. It's what makes the next part almost scary: Just because God may be generous to a fault with the divine invitation (at least to our eyes) doesn't mean everyone shows up at the table. Could anything be crazier? Why in the world would anybody pass up a deal like that?

The church supplies at least seven reasons. Pride: I don't need God or his holy gifts to get where I'm going. Greed: I'm too busy stockpiling my own cupboards to make that party. Anger: I didn't get what I wanted from God last time so he won't be seeing my face again. Envy: God has all the power and I don't! Who needs his friendship? Laziness: How far is it to that banquet? I can't get there from here. Lust: Close the bedroom door and leave God out of this! Gluttony: Why should I leave this party to show up at that one? Many are called, but that's no guarantee they'll all show up.

MASS INTENTIONS

The tradition of offering a Mass Intention is a deeply meaningful and ancient Catholic practice. Since the Holy Mass is the greatest and most powerful prayer of the Church, having a Mass offered for a specific intention is a powerful way to intercede for the living, pray for the dead, and give thanks to God.

To request a Mass intention at Mission San Diego, stop by our Visitor Center & Gift Shop and complete a Mass Intention Request Envelope. Requests for a specific date and time should be made at least one month in advance. If no date is requested, the Mass will be scheduled as soon as possible.

In the Diocese of San Diego, the recommended offering for a Mass intention is $10.00. Offerings received from Mass intentions are given to the priest who celebrated the Mass as part of his compensation. At the Mission San Diego, priest's Mass intentions are announced by way of the Sunday bulletin.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY — WHAT IS A CREED?

Most Catholics can recite at least portions of the Nicene and Apostles Creed by heart — but though these are perhaps the best-known two creeds of modern times, Church tradition has yielded many more.

A creed (from the Latin “credo,” meaning “I believe”) is a summary of the most important articles of faith agreed upon by a group of people who hold them as truth. Tradition attributes authorship of the Apostles’ Creed to Christ’s 12 Apostles. The Nicene Creed originated at the first worldwide ecumenical council in Nicaea in 325 AD. The Athanasian Creed is another famous statement of belief approved by the Church, this one focusing particularly on the matter of the Holy Trinity.

All approved creeds fulfill Christ’s Great Commission to “make disciples of all nations” (Matthew 28:19) and the need for Christians to “always be prepared to make a defense to anyone who calls you to account for the hope that is in you” (1 Peter 3:15).

CATHOLIC Q&A

QUESTION

How do I bring God into the work of my daily life?

ANSWER:

Whatever your daily work, you have an opportunity to encounter God and to follow His commandments in love. In the New Testament, we see that most of the Apostles didn’t have a previous religious position. They were fishermen, tax collectors, and political activists. St. Paul was a tentmaker. Among the saints, we have doctors, lawyers, farmers, and stay-at-home moms. No matter your daily tasks, God can be present there!

One way concerns behavior. Start with an examination of conscience. Look at areas where you tend to struggle to imitate Christ at work. Do you gossip? Does brimming frustration become impatience at home? Pick one sin you struggle with, then choose a virtue to strengthen that area. If you tend to speak poorly of your co-workers, resolve to stop and to say one kind thing a day instead.

Another way relates to perspective, particularly your perspective of others. Jesus’ incarnation reminds us of the value of every human being. Jesus is God, and each of us is created in God’s image. When you encounter another person, you have an opportunity to see God in a new place and a new way — in that person in front of you. Genuinely listen to them and be present to their concerns. Loving your neighbor is loving God! Our relationship with God and the love He inspires in our hearts shouldn’t remain only at church on Sunday. We can — and should — let our faith animate our lives!
