

Each stanza of this enthronement text prepares for the final line of the refrain, based on Philippians 4:4. "Lord" is here a title of Christ rather than a reference to the undivided Trinity. The late 18th-century tune (first used with Psalm 148) captures the mood well.

(D)

Let Us Build a House

All Are Welcome

(A)

(D)

(G)

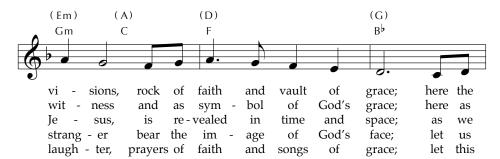

(A)

(Bm)

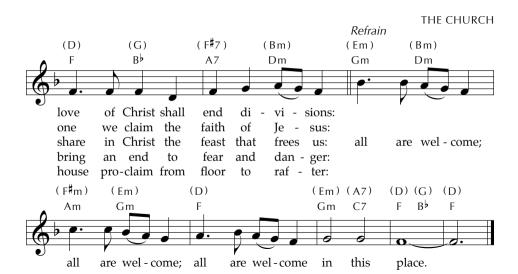

Built of hopes and dreams hearts learn how to for give. dream God's reign Here the cross shall stand а new. where peace and Here the love jus tice meet. God, through Word they've known. Here the out - cast the words with - in the Word. Built of tears and as and

Although it was written for a church dedication, this text is not about a physical structure but a spiritual one. The building is at best only a vessel for the essential love and hope, life and faith, peace and justice, hospitality and nurture that form the worshiping community.

305 Come Sing, O Church, in Joy!

This text was the winner in a hymn competition sponsored by the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) Bicentennial Committee for the 1988–1989 observance, which had the theme "Celebrate the Journey." The late 18th-century tune (first used with Psalm 148) is appropriately celebratory.