IELTS ORIENTATION PROGRAMME REPORT – 13.02.2025

We have conducted an orientation program about the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) on February 13, 2025 for the students of CAHS (3rd years) at Lecture Hall 5 (2nd floor), College of Allied Health Science, SRMIST, TRC. The session was organized to provide students with valuable insights into the IELTS exam, which is crucial for those aiming to go for study or work abroad. Dr. Abraham, an expert from SRMIST - Ramapuram campus, has addressed the students. He delivered an informative speech about the structure, components, and significance of the IELTS exam. He also shared tips on improving English language skills, such as regular practice, reading diverse materials, and engaging in conversations to boost speaking and listening abilities. Around 145 students were participated and get benefitted with an idea of how to prepare for the same.

The orientation session provided students with a deeper understanding of the exam and its relevance for their future. It was an interactive session, and students were encouraged to ask questions and clarify doubts. By the end of the program, the students were motivated to begin their preparations for the IELTS exam, recognizing it as an important step toward achieving their academic and professional goals abroad.
