WOMEN'S DAY 2025 PROGRAMME REPORT

The Women's Day 2025 celebration at the College of Allied Health Sciences, SRMIST, TRC was a vibrant and engaging event, filled with creativity, enthusiasm, and competitive spirit. One of the highlights was Trash2Trend, where women students showcased their innovation by transforming waste materials into stylish and fashion portraits. This activity not only promoted sustainability but also encouraged students to think outside the box and experiment with design. In addition to this, a 400-meter relay competition was held, where participants ran with great energy and determination, displaying their sportsmanship. Another exciting event was the Ad-Zap competition, where students had to creatively act and pitch a product. Many of the products presented were women-centric, such as the menstruation cup, bringing Awareness and reflecting their ingenuity and marketing skills. The event concluded with a rewarding moment as judges evaluated the performances and distributed prizes to the winners. Overall, the celebration was a resounding success, fostering creativity, teamwork, and empowerment among the students.
