On August 15, the Feast of the Assumption (or simply, "The Assumption") is widely celebrated all over Christendom. This holy day marks the occasion of the Virgin Mary's bodily ascent to heaven at the end of her life. Loving God, as Mary trusted that you would provide for all her needs, we also trust that you will answer these needs as we make our prayer through the power of the Spirit and in the name of Jesus, your son. Amen.

El 15 de agosto, la festividad de la Asunción (o simplemente, «La Asunción») se celebra ampliamente en toda la cristiandad. Esta festividad conmemora la ascensión corporal de la Virgen María al cielo al final de su vida. Dios de amor, así como María confió en que proveerías para todas sus necesidades, nosotros también confiamos en que responderás a estas necesidades al presentar nuestra oración por el poder del Espíritu y en el nombre de Jesús, tu hijo. Amén.

We believe that each child is a gift of God. We know that it is a privilege to be the first educators of your child. Each child learns and grows at a different pace. Children learn best in an environment that is safe, structured, nurturing and fosters discovery. Parents are the primary educators of their children. Parents and teachers must have a strong partnership to support healthy child development. Our goal at St. Adelaide Preschool is to prepare young children for their kindergarten and elementary school experience. We support this development by focusing our program on the eight domains of learning:

- Socio-Emotional Learning (SEL)
- Language and Literacy
- Mathematics
- Visual and Performing Arts
- Physical Development
- Health Education
- Social Science
- Science

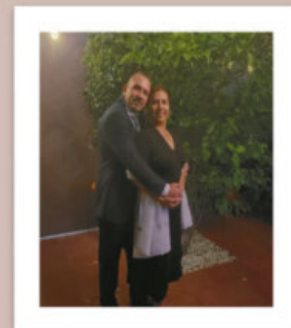

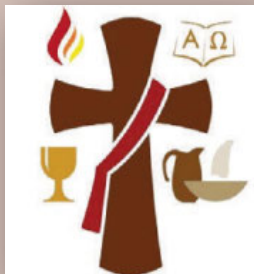

St. Adelaide Preschool sets the same Schoolwide Learning Expectations (SLEs) as the elementary school at the preschool children's level of understanding. They are:

- To be prayerful and respect others
- To learn and to listen
- To be responsible for our choices and take care of our world.

This helps our children to become Catholic stewards, scholars, and leaders!

GOSPEL MEDITATION

Luke 12:32-48

There was a young mother in my parish community who was depressed due to financial strain. She prayed for help. One morning before Mass, she placed on the counter a zip-lock bag filled with jewelry and old coins. Smiling, she explained she had been fixing an old cabinet and found the items hidden deep within the walls of her home. One particular coin could be worth as much as $900,000. The contents of the bag—previously unknown to them—were now their prized possession. Their plans changed that week. They had to learn how much it was worth.

This week, the Lord tells us, “For where your treasure is, there also will your heart be” (Luke 12:34). Our lives revolve around what we treasure. When we discover the treasure the Father gives us—the kingdom of God—everything changes. We might not know its precise value, but we rearrange our lives around it. The joy of this discovery should never be far from our minds.

Sometimes we go through times when we can’t find this treasure. It seems hidden. Or it appears like dirty old coins and worthless jewelry in a Ziploc bag. But how crazy would my parishioners be if they tossed it away without knowing the cash value? How much crazier are we if we center our hearts on any treasure except that of Jesus and his kingdom? Remember, the Father is pleased to give it to us. That’s why we put our hearts there, even when it is hidden.

— Father John Muir

Donating food to those in need is a noble and compassionate act, especially to organizations like food banks. However, it is important to ensure that the food being donated is safe and healthy for consumption. Donating expired food may seem like a good idea to eliminate waste, but it can have negative consequences for both the recipients and the donors.

So why avoid giving expired food donations to food banks?

Here are several reasons why it is important to avoid giving expired food products as donations:

Health Risks – Eating expired food can be very dangerous for our health as it may harbor harmful bacteria that can cause food poisoning. This can result in symptoms such as diarrhea, vomiting, fever, and other severe illnesses. People with weakened immune systems, as well as children and the elderly, are particularly vulnerable to the adverse effects of consuming expired food. Donating expired food to those in need can endanger their health. Food banks need healthy food as much as possible to provide quality meals to those who need it. And expired food is not part of that equation.

Legal Liability – Donating expired food can also result in legal liability for the donors. If the recipient becomes ill after consuming expired food, the donor may be held liable for any damages or injuries that result from the donation. In some cases, donating expired food may violate state or federal laws related to food safety and public health.

When donating expired food to food banks, donors may face legal implications for their actions. Depending on the state or federal laws in the area on food safety, donors may be held responsible if the recipient becomes ill after consuming the donated food. In some cases, this can include criminal penalties and civil damages. Donors could potentially be charged with negligence, as expired food may not meet the standards of health or safety dictated by state and federal laws.

Ethical Concerns – Donating food that has passed its expiration date can be a cause for ethical concerns regarding the treatment of recipients who are in need. As donors, it is our responsibility to provide safe and high-quality food to those who depend on it for survival. Giving expired or unsafe food might be seen as a lack of respect or degrading towards the beneficiaries.

Negative Perception – Donating food that has passed its expiration date can harm the reputation of both the donor and the organization. This can make it harder to receive future donations or find partnerships. It can also negatively affect how the public views the organization and their ability to raise funds.

Waste Management – While donating expired food may seem like a good idea to reduce waste, in reality it can lead to waste management problems. The expenses associated with storing, transporting, and disposing of expired food can be high, and it may divert resources from other crucial projects. not donate any items that show signs of spoilage. expired or past their sell-by date.

Donating expired food may seem like a good way to help those in need, but it can also present serious health risks. It is important to ensure that all food donations given are safe and not past their expiration date. There are several alternatives to donating expired food, such as donating non-perishable items, fresh produce, volunteering time or money, or hosting a food drive. These are all excellent options for those looking to make a positive impact in their community.

Remember to donate with care and consideration, as your donation will impact the lives of those in need. To provide optimal benefit to the recipients, ensure that your donations are safe and not expired. By donating responsibly, you can make a positive difference in your community.

MEDITACIÓN DEL
EVANGELIO
XIX Domingo del
Tiempo Ordinario

Todos tenemos algo bajo nuestro cuidado: la familia, un enfermo, los padres, los niños. Incluso el lugar en que vivimos, nuestra casa común, nuestro planeta. Dios cuenta con nosotros para dar respuesta al Evangelio de hoy. "Estén preparados", nos dice. "Tengan puesta la ropa de trabajo y sus lámparas encendidas" (Lucas 12:33). Nos pide estar siempre en vela, alertas, preparados para su llegada. Por lo tanto, debemos estar atentos, trabajando en todo lo que nos acerca a Él. Ser fieles a su Palabra implica responsabilidad, implica avivar el fuego de Dios en el corazón de cada persona.

Pedro, como siempre, se anima a preguntar: "Señor, esta parábola que has contado, ¿es sólo para nosotros o es para todos?". Gracias, Pedro, por preguntar. Así, el Señor Jesús afirma que el trabajo y la fidelidad son para todos sin excepción: "Afortunado ese servidor si, al llegar su señor, lo encuentra cumpliendo su deber" (Lucas 12:43). Esta respuesta es una invitación a cooperar en el crecimiento del Reino de Dios, a entusiasmarnos en los proyectos comunitarios que llevan al bien común. "El amor a la sociedad y el compromiso por el bien común son una forma excelente de la caridad, que no solo afecta a las relaciones entre los individuos, sino a las macro relaciones, como las relaciones sociales, económicas y políticas" (Papa Francisco, Laudato Si', 231, septiembre 21, 2023).
