A Lifelong Passion for Building

For John Agee, owner of Yorba Linda Remodel, home construction isn't just a career—it's been a lifelong calling. "Ever since I was a young boy, I wanted to be a builder," John recalls. Growing up in Lakewood, California, he spent hours building forts from pallets and scrap plywood before moving on to high school shop classes, which further fueled his love for craftsmanship.

At just 18 years old, John began working for a local room addition company. That first job launched his career in the home improvement industry, and by 1990, he had earned his contractor's license. "I've spent my entire adult life remodeling homes," he says proudly.

Craftsmanship with a Local Touch

In 1990, John founded Yorba Linda Remodel, a full-service residential remodeling company dedicated to making homes more beautiful, functional, and comfortable. His specialties include room additions, kitchens, baths, and whole-house remodels, with a particular focus on creating seamless expansions that blend naturally with existing structures.

"Making a Yorba Linda home more beautiful, functional, and comfortable gives me great satisfaction," John explains. "I really enjoy working with my clients." He emphasizes that every project is built on communication, design, and expertise. "People are amazed at how we retrofit the foundation and framing to add a new wing or a room to their house," he adds.

Exclusive to Yorba Linda

Unlike many contractors who spread their work across multiple cities, John has made the intentional choice to keep his business local. "Yorba Linda Remodel is exclusive to this city," he says. "Your contractor is never more than 10 minutes away!" This commitment allows him to offer not only high-quality craftsmanship but also personalized service and accountability.

John believes remodeling is more than just construction—it's an investment in both comfort and value. "Investing in your Yorba Linda home is always a smart choice. It will increase your comfort, function, and value," he says.

More Than a Builder—A Neighbor

Beyond his business, John is deeply rooted in the Yorba Linda community. He is the proud father of five children, with three currently attending local schools. Over the years, he has coached Little League for seven seasons, served as President of the former Yorba Hills Little League, and even coached recreation league basketball for four seasons. At home, he enjoys time with his family and their mini-Schnauzer, Buddy.

Turning Vision Into Reality

At the heart of Yorba Linda Remodel is a simple philosophy: treat every home as if it were your own. John and his team strive to combine thoughtful design with expert craftsmanship to deliver projects that exceed expectations. "We provide five-star home remodeling craftsmanship, products, and overall experience," he says. "Home remodeling is fun!" John adds. "I enjoy it when clients and their families watch the work being performed. It's exciting for them to see the transformation happen in real time."

When the time comes to refresh your space, John Agee is the expert to call for quality remodeling done right. "I strive to provide the best home remodeling craftsmanship, products, and overall experience to the community of Yorba Linda," he said.
