Otis Smith Farm and Rowbottom Preserve

The Otis Smith Farm preserves 27 acres of scenic landscape. The newly improved White Trail Loop now traverses the property providing a more unique perspective with Little Pond shoreline, forest, craggy outcrops and remains of an old irrigation ditch. This area is significant for its biologically diverse array of wild plants, some considered rare in RI.

The Rowbottom 28-acre parcel abuts the south side of Otis Smith Farm and was purchased in 1999. Here too, the Blue Trail Loop has been modified to enhance the striking elevation and blocky cliff face.

Each trail loop is approximately a mile in length. A new Red Connector Trail off of the White Loop now formally connects the Scott Brook and High Rock trail systems across Scott Road to the west. For further information on these trails, see the High Rock and Scott Brook trail map.
