"Let the little children come to me." Mt. 9:14

In Jesus' time, there were strict rules about what men and women could do. For example, women weren't supposed to be disciples, or students. In today's Gospel, Jesus visits the house of two sisters, Martha and Mary. Notice what Jesus has to say about Mary, who sits at Jesus' side and listens to him teach. Martha didn't understand how her sister, Mary, could listen to Jesus' teaching. She was supposed to be doing housework! But Jesus defends Mary. He shows us that everyone can be his follower.

Luke 10:38-42

Jesus visits the house of Martha and Mary.

The story of Jesus in the home of Martha and Mary complements the story of the Good Samaritan, which immediately precedes it in Luke's Gospel. Both stories are unique to Luke. The story of the Samaritan opens with the words "a certain man." Today's reading opens with the words "a certain woman." The Samaritan is an example of how a disciple should see and act. Mary is an example of how a disciple should listen. Mary, a woman, is a marginalized person in society, like the Samaritan. Both do what is not expected of them. As a woman, Mary would be expected, like Martha, to prepare hospitality for a guest. Here again Jesus breaks with the social conventions of his time. Just as a Samaritan would not be a model for neighborliness, so a woman would not sit with the men around the feet of a teacher.

Both stories exemplify how a disciple is to fulfill the dual command which begins chapter 10—love of God (Mary) and love of neighbor (the Samaritan). These are the two essentials of life in the kingdom. By using the examples of a Samaritan and a woman, however, Jesus is saying something more. Social codes and boundaries were strict in Jesus' time. Yet to love God with all one's heart and one's neighbor requires breaking those rules. The Kingdom of God is a society without distinctions and boundaries between its members. It is a society that requires times for seeing and doing and also times for listening and learning at the feet of a teacher.

THE CATHOLIC CORNER

Distractions Like Martha

Think about your day. How often are you on your phone, scrolling through social media, watching tv, or answering emails? How much time do you spend on work, sports, or other activities? These are all normal parts of life, and most of them are good in the right balance. But sometimes, without even realizing it, these things can take over so much of our time and attention that we lose focus on what really matters—our relationship with God. Distractions today might look different than they did in Martha's time, but they're just as real. Instead of cooking or cleaning, we're often distracted by our phones, endless to-do lists, or the pressure to succeed. These distractions can make us feel like there's no time for prayer, Mass, or quiet time with God. And sometimes, even when we do make time, our minds are still racing with thoughts about everything else we need to do. Just like Martha, we can get so caught up in everything we think we "have to do" that we forget to simply be with Jesus. And when that happens, we might start to feel overwhelmed, stressed, or even disconnected from God. It's about finding balance and making small but intentional choices to prioritize your relationship with God. Be still.... Psalm 46:10
