

Catholic Kid's Corner

♥ And kids at heart! ♥
"Let the little children come to me." Mt. 9:14

In today's Gospel, Jesus talks about people who are dishonest, or do not tell the truth. When we make a habit of telling the truth, people know that they can trust us. As Christians, we tell the truth. This helps us be closer to God and to have good relationships with others.

Let's pray to the Holy Spirit for the strength and courage to tell the truth.

Luke 16:1-13

Jesus tells a parable about a dishonest steward who is commended for his prudence; one cannot serve both God and money.

Today's Gospel sounds puzzling to contemporary readers, but it can be made less so by considering the economic system which stands behind the parable. A steward is dismissed because he is squandering his master's property. He is called dishonest because he is not serving the interests of the rich man, his employer. In response the steward, in an attempt to ensure favor for himself among the rich man's debtors, brokers repayment of the rich man's loans by foregoing the interest and fees that had been levied to line the steward's pockets. It is this action, in which the steward puts aside his greed and takes the longer perspective in order to enhance his security, which is commended by the rich man.

The passage concludes with three morals for the listeners. The first exhorts the listener to be prudent about the use of wealth. Like the steward in the parable, those who would follow Jesus must put transitory affairs in proper perspective. Christians should handle the affairs of temporal life with an eye toward eternal life.

The second concerns trustworthiness. Those who can be trusted in small things can also be trusted in great things. If Christians handle money and other passing things responsibly, then they can also be trusted with the affairs of the Kingdom of God.

Finally, Jesus tells his listeners that no one can serve two masters simultaneously. God must be put ahead of money.

THE CATHOLIC CORNER

WHAT THE CHURCH TEACHES ABOUT DISHONESTY.
The parable of the dishonest steward.

In a world where trust is often hard to come by and where people lose trust easily, it is more important than ever to value and practice these virtues. From a Catholic perspective, honesty and transparency are not only essential moral values but also key to living a life of faith and integrity. Honesty helps us to navigate a confusing world with much more clarity and understanding. The Bible teaches us that honesty and transparency are important attributes of a person who follows God's ways. In John 8:32, Jesus said, "You will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." As Catholics, we believe that truth is not just an abstract concept, but a person, Jesus Christ, who is the way, the truth, and the life (Jn 14:6). Therefore, to be honest and transparent is not only a matter of personal integrity but also an act of faith. To be honest and transparent is the foundation of our spiritual development and growth. Honesty means telling the truth in all circumstances, even when it may be uncomfortable or inconvenient.

It means being truthful about one's intentions, feelings, and actions. Honesty is essential to building trust and creating meaningful relationships. As Catholics, we are called to be truthful in all our dealings with others, to refrain from lying, cheating, or deceiving others. St Paul encourages us to "speak the truth in love" (Eph 4:15), reminding us that honesty is not just about telling the truth but also about the way we communicate it. Transparency is essential to building trust and accountability in relationships, especially in situations of leadership and authority. As Catholics, we are called to be transparent in all our dealings with others, to avoid hidden agendas, and to be open to feedback and criticism. Transparency helps us to be accountable for our actions and to avoid the temptation of dishonesty or deceit. Transparency saves us from entering into a web of lies. When we are not transparent, we may have to upkeep a series of lies with more lies. Therefore, transparency helps us to live a life of happiness and joy. In Catholic social teaching, honesty and transparency are also important principles for creating a just and equitable society. Transparency is necessary for accountability. Honesty is essential for promoting the common good. Honesty and transparency are essential virtues that are rooted in the Catholic faith. They are not just moral values but also acts of faith that reflect our relationship with God and with others. We are called to live our lives with integrity, to be truthful in all our dealings with others, and to be transparent in our actions and intentions.
In so doing, we can build trust and create meaningful relationships, promote the common good, and ultimately, grow closer to God.

Shroud of Turin

The Knights of Columbus Risen Savior Council, are honored to present a special gift to our parish — a life-size display of the Shroud of Turin and other items from Christ's crucifixion, a powerful reminder of the sacrifice Jesus made for us. The display will be officially presented on:

Friday, October 3rd at 5:30 PM in the Marian Center, where a presentation will be given. All parishioners are warmly invited to attend. The Youth Group will provide refreshments during the presentation. The Shroud will then be on display in the Marian Center after each Mass that weekend before being moved to its permanent location in the parish library.

We look forward to sharing this wonderful gift with you all.
Please spread the word and invite your family, friends, and neighbors!
